What Are We Worth?
New Russian Unit
What's the Best Road?
A New Treaty

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1922, Star Co.

Last year the people of this country took out nine thousand million dollars more life insurance than in any other year except one. The total insurance on the lives of Americans amounts to nearly fifty thousand million dollars.

How much are the hundred millions of Americans really worth? Nobody can answer that question, but it is sure that they are worth many times fifty thousand millions of dollars.

They are worth all that the United States is worth, farms, factories, mines and as much more as intelligence, courage and skill can get out of the ground.

The wealth of the country is represented by its natural resources, plus human intelligence working through machinery. How much was this country worth when there were only Indians to ride over it and kill wild animals and each other?

Russia has officially given up the gold ruble as the basis of value. Some other unit is to be established, perhaps goods, perhaps a day of Russian labor. Years ago this downfall of gold would have delighted Mr. Bryan. But now he is off on another track, hunting Darwin over the mountains and through the valleys. Besides, nations that have managed to hold on to gold and stick to the gold basis seem to be doing rather well, comparatively.

What will be the perfect road when built, when all earth travel is in automobiles, and steel road destroying horseshoes are gone? Many substances have been used, clamshells, slag, rubber, seaweed, cotton, straw, planks.

In Valencia, Spain, a road of steel has been used for twenty years, and here cement roads are reinforced with steel, laid in sections to allow for expansion.

The cheapest road is the road that lasts longest, as the cheapest roof is the roof that lasts longest. In these dull days for the steel industry it might pay to try the Spanish steel road here.

An Egyptian King kept a hundred thousand men working for ten years laying a great stone road for transporting materials of which the Pyramids were built.

Why doesn't this government use some of the gold piled up in its treasury to build roads that the country needs, and give work to men that need it?

Some were shocked when Germany announced a treaty with Russia. England was shocked when she was told after the thing was done, that the Italians and Turks had made a treaty. Now there is talk of a German-Russian-Turkish-Bulgarian alliance.

What will surprise most of all, if it comes along, and very likely it will, will be "an arrangement" very close to a treaty between England and Germany.

Most important in that treaty, and many Englishmen think it will come, will be an arrangement for Germany and England to work harmoniously in Russia, not fighting each other, but developing whatever there is to be developed. Business soon forgets hatreds.

Senator Borah is trying to find out why a "Russian Ambassador" having no connection with the present government of Russia is recognized at Washington and allowed to spend in his own way tens of millions of American money lent to Russia.

The government would not recognize or allow its money to be spent by an Ambassador appointed in this country by the former Kaiser of Germany. Why recognize a Russian Ambassador a man, however estimable, appointed by Kerensky five years ago?

Beware of eggs and mayonnaise dressing mixed. A Paris magistrate died after eating the mixture, which had been allowed to stand for some time. Cream, eggs and mayonnaise dressing mixed up must be eaten at once or—LOOK OUT. French doctors warn you that this mixture develops microbes unlimited if allowed to stand, and may cause death.

Moses would not allow milk, butter or any milk product to be eaten with meat. He knew nothing about microbes, never heard of them. But he knew a good deal about health, especially in his own warm climate.

The Canadian navy in one year cost less than two million dollars. This shows what can be accomplished by an agreement between nations when based on sincerity and common sense.

We agree with Canada to keep no fighting ships on the Great Lakes. Canada knows that we have not the most remote intention of attacking her at any time, on land or water. So she is able to save her money. Without that Great Lakes agreement the Canadians would be taxed tens of millions every year to keep up ships uselessly and waste the time of valuable workers.

And the money spent on navies, armies and pensions could be saved if the average of intelligence were a little higher.

MRS. HUBBARD INDICTED FOR FIRST DEGREE MURDER

SLAYER OF HUSBAND MUST GO TO TRIAL

Grand Jury Returns True Bill Against the Widow of Germicide King

Mrs. Carrie N. Hubbard, who fatally shot her husband, William J. Hubbard, "Hermicide King," Tuesday evening in their Roslindale home, was indicted by the Suffolk County Grand Jury today for first degree murder.

The shooting occurred after a violent quarrel. Edward P. Pitlock, Chicago youth who fled the Hubbard house, at No. 20 Congreve street, just before the shots were fired, was not summoned as a Grand Jury witness.

Only police officials, doctors and the medical examiner gave testimony.

Today it was learned that "ther women" will figure in the murder when the case comes to trial. Interesting revelations are said to be in preparation for disclosure to a jury.

A copy of the indictment returned by the Grand Jury today will be served on Mrs. Hubbard in prison, and soon after a date will be set for trial.

STRANGE DREAM.

From Chicago today came the announcement that Pitlock's young wife, a war bride from whom he had been separated, dreamed a strange dream in which the murder was revealed

"I saw my husband with 'Mother' Hubbard, and he seemed to be in trouble," declared Mrs. Pitlock. "His

DRAG FOR VICTIMS OF CRASH

Big Machine With Load of Woman Freight Drops Into Quarry at Lincoln, R. I.

Lincoln, R. I., May 5.—The bodies of a party of joy riders will be uncovered when the big automobile resting on the bottom of Ledge Rock Lake here is raised, Providence and Pawtucket police assisting authorities here believe.

A touring car with closed curtains swung at high speed crashed through a fence and shot over a 150-foot embankment into the lake at 9 o'clock Thursday night after sliding in the narrow roadway.

Howard Richardson, a farmer, saw the car flash by his house, then heard the crash. He summoned neighbors.

Police from Providence and Pawtucket came here today after discovering thefts of automobiles in both cities the fatal evening. A sedan was stolen in Providence and a touring car in Pawtucket.

JOY RIDERS.

It is believed that one of these cars may be the one that shot out of the mud of Wilbur road into the lake. Joy riders, police believe, stole the autos sent to an inn in the Cumberland Hills and were returning through Wilbur road to North Providence when they slid off to their doom.

Wilbur Road has long been known as a "Speed Paradise." It is a common thing to find machines lined along the country roads with lights dimmed. It would have been no unusual thing even in the heavy rains for joy riders to slip through the road toward Providence instead of going by the State road, especially if the car was stolen.

When the accident happened is known to Lime Rock, Wilbur road is a main artery. The settlement consists but a dozen farm houses. To the east at Ledge Rock quarries runaways and is lined at its sides by fence, on the right is the rock, on the left abandoned lime quarries.

HEARD CRASH.

Hours of rain had churned the narrow strip of road into a bowl of over-flowing mud. Into it shot the car, its lights silvering the sheets of falling rain.

Saddled, twisted to the right and shot through the fence with a terrific crash and went over the embankment into the pool.

Richardson, in his farmhouse 100 yards from the ledge, hurried to the Croker estate in response to a request from the family, who feared that mutineers would try to seize the castle.

Mrs. Frances A. Somers of Manchester, N. H., received the surprise of her life when her name and photograph appeared in the fortunate name returns yesterday. She was awarded $100.00 for possessing the most fortunate name of the day. Perhaps some other Somers is equally fortunate—send a name—$100.00 awarded daily—see the Boston Daily Advertiser.—Adv.

DEMPSEY AND CARP AGAIN

Champion Declares He Is Ready to Meet Frenchman Late in the Year

By the Associated Press.

Paris, May 5.—Jack Dempsey told the Associated Press today it was almost certain he would meet Georges Carpentier again in London or Paris, late this year, if Carpentier defeats Ted Lewis in London, May 11, and provided the purse is satisfactory.

The posting of forfeits and other details, Dempsey added, are being discussed in London by Jack Kearns, Dempsey's manager, and Francois Descamps, manager of Carpentier.

Definite arrangements, however, are awaiting the outcome of the Lewis-Carpentier fight. Dempsey asserted it was immaterial to him whether he met Willard before or after his second go with the French champion.

"I am also ready to meet Wills or anyone else, provided they mean business," said Dempsey. "I hope something definite will come out of all these offers. All I want is a few months training. I've been in Europe and had a fine rest, and am now anxious to get back to work.

"I should like to star in Europe a little longer, but I must return and fulfill a theatrical engagement in the west and a motion picture contract in New York. I cannot afford to default on either of these. I shall leave Paris for London Tuesday, and shall probably sail for New York May 13."

Dempsey characterized as pure nonsense the reports linking his name with an actress who has been much in the public eye of late. He also denied recent reports that he was going to marry a French girl.

"All reports about that," he said, "are pure bunk. As I have already told you, my heart is in America where it is held tightly by an American girl. I'm afraid my girl in America will be jealous if she hears much in the public about my going around with French girls, and will make me do some tall explaining when I get home."

Stole Cigarettes and May Stay Behind Bars 50 Years

New York, May 5.—(By International News Service).—Fifty years' imprisonment for the theft of a package of cigarettes is a possibility facing Frank Lynch today.

He pointed a revolver at the head of Irving Greene and robbed him of all his possessions, the cigarettes.

The grand jury indicted him for:

Robbery in the first degree.
Assault in the first degree.
Receiving stolen goods.

The maximum punishment for the lot is fifty years.

CLEARING TONIGHT AND WARMER FOR TOMORROW

Tomorrow the temperature will rise to between 60 and 70 degrees, according to the weather forecast. Rain will be followed by clearing tonight. Today's storm was central off the New Jersey coast, causing rains as far north as the St. Lawrence River section. Boston has experienced the heaviest spell with 2.96 inches, while Concord, N. H., got 1.68.

THICK ARMORPLATE WORN BY BURGLARY STUDENT

WANTED IN SEVERAL CITIES

Man Sought Three Years Is Held in $25,000; Taken After Mile Chase

"The Lone Wolf," robber, burglar and second-story worker, sought for three years by the police of almost every city in Massachusetts, was caught today after a thrilling chase of more than a mile through the back alleys and yards of the West End district, Boston.

The officers who caught the notorious crook were John H. Russell, former star sprinter for the University of Maine, and Special Officer Holmes, both of Joy Street Station.

When their prisoner arrived at the station he is alleged to have confessed his name was Samuel Goldstein, and that he is the man whom both newspapers and police of the Bay State have christened "The Lone Wolf."

He was arraigned before Judge Parmenter in the Municipal Court.

'LONE WOLF' IS HELD IN $25,000; ADMITS MANY BURGLARIES

TRAPPED IN WEST END

charged with breaking and entering and with having burglar tools in his possession. With him was Herbert McLean, arrested in the house Goldstein had given as his address in the West End.

The men were held in $25,000 bail each after Assistant District Attdriey Robert Robinson had told the court that one of them was "The Lone Wolf" and wanted in many of the cities and towns of the State.

Before his arraignment "The Lone Wolf" is alleged by the police to have admitted many breaks. Among them are said to have been:

Five in the North End.
Several in the Brattle street section of Cambridge.
Twelve in the West End, Boston.
Five in the South End, Boston.
Several in Roxbury.
Several in Jamaica Plain.

The Lone Wolf is suspected of at least forty burglaries, in which the loot amounted to thousands of dollars.

A third arrest was made, but the police withheld the name of this man, who is held as a suspicious person.

A tip led the police to a house in the West End, where it is said the thieves had cached their loot. This place is being guarded in the hope that others of the gang will appear and walk into the trap the police have set.

The arrest of the Lone Wolf was as sensational in its way as any of the many things he is alleged to have done.

Special Officers Russell and Holmes were walking along Cambridge street, near Anderson street, West End, when they saw a man carrying a bundle under his coat. In a general way he answered the meagre descriptions the police had been able to obtain of the Lone Wolf.

The officers started across the street in the direction of the suspect, who wheeled and fled up Anderson street into Phillips street, with the policemen hard on his heels.

In Phillips the fugitive turned into an alleyway, jumped a low fence and disappeared. But the officers held to the trail and a few seconds later caught sight of their quarry trying to climb another fence.

For more than a mile the chase lasted. At last the officers came upon the man they hunted, scaling a high wall. He was about to drop over this when one of them seized his foot and pulled him back into the alleyway. He made no attempt to struggle when caught.

A few hours before the capture of Goldstein, the Lone Wolf had escaped from the Cambridge police at the moment they believed they had him surrounded.

It was the second time in twenty-four hours he had eluded the law. The first instance was at a house on fashionable Brattle street, Cambridge. There he attempted to gain admission through a window on the second floor.

The occupants of the house were awakened and called the police. Within a few minutes a cordon of officers was thrown about the place, but when the police closed in the Lone Wolf was on the grounds of Dr. Charles Foster. When the officers got there the Wolf was gone.

Nine Breaks Charged in Court to Lone Wolf

"The Lone Wolf" and Herbert McLean, who were arrested at the same time, were jointly charged with the following breaks when arraigned before Judge Parmenter in the municipal court:

April 20: The house of Wilhelmina Douglas, No. 40 Phillips street, West End. Fled when discovered.

April 21: Webster Crane, No. 7 Blossom street, West End; trousers and shoes valued at $8.

April 21: James H. Hemian, No. 137 Charles street, West End; suit case $3, glasses $5, 1 shirt $2, union suits $5, suit of clothes $40.

April 21: Joseph Goldman, No. 63 Lowell street, West End; $50 suit, $25 watch and chain, 4 sheets $4, eight pillow cases $4.

The Lone Wolf was charged alone with the following:

April 21: George Bellow, No. 18 Auburn street, $25 bicycle.

May 4: Minnie Wineburg, No. 130 Brighton street, West End; blue serge suit $25, 2 silk shirts $16, 4 shirts $8, spread for bed $4.

May 4: Harry Lazza, No. 130 Brighton street, West End; blue suit $50, 2 wedding rings $20, 2 signet rings $20.

May 4: Frightened from home of Moses Ofstein, No. 98 Popular street, West End, where he attempted to enter with a false key.

May 4: Homes of Sarah Kaplan and David Cohen, No. 17 Parkman street: $65 suit, $9 silk shirt, $45 suit, $25 satin dress, $25 dress, $2 shirt.

In addition, the police say, McLean has admitted thirty breaks and the Lone Wolf nearly thirty.

UNWRITTEN LAW FREED SLAYER

By International News Service.

New York, May 5.—"A mother always worries. I shall always worry because Carl shot a man, but the jury was so good to send him back to me."

Thus Did Mrs. Margaret Veith today voice her eternal sorrow over the fact that her son, Carl Veith, shot William Doyle after Doyle had attacked and taken $4 from her home, and also her thanks that a jury recognized a new "unwritten law" and acquitted him of the act which Assistant District Attorney Brothers characterized as "cold-blooded and premeditated murder."

Doyle, whom both Veith and his mother had befriended, attacked Mrs. Vieth, filled with love for "his only sweetheart" sought Doyle for hours, found him and killed him with an old Civil War pistol.

Mrs. Veith, a frail little woman of 65 years, with her thin face still showing the marks of Doyle's attack upon her, busied herself about the little rented Brooklyn home "tidying it up" for the return of her son later in the day from his trip to discover if his $25 a week job in a tinfoil factory is still waiting for him.

"Everybody told me he did right in killing Doyle," Mrs. Veith said. "But I never said that. I asked him why he shot Doyle, and why he had not punished him in some other way.

"I was afraid while he was being tried. The lawyer said it was a very unusual case. I was ill and worried, but I kept up for Carl's sake.

"Oh, I shall always worry," she said, wringing her slim hands, "but I will keep up."

SENATE KILLS CURTIS CRIME CHECK BILL

Late Commissioner Asked for Greater Police Power to Make Arrests

The anti-crime-wave bill, drafted by the late Police Commissioner Edwin U. Curtis, to give the Boston police greater power to arrest persons charged with being idle and disorderly, was today defeated by the State Senate, 18 to 8.

Senator John M. Gibbs of Waltham told the Senate Mr. Curtis had found the courts would refuse to convict habitual loafers unless it was shown their time was misspent in "tipping about."

Since the advent of prohibition, the "tippling shops" has passed out of existence, Gibbs said. Gangs of criminals fan come into Boston, but the public are powerless to round them up unless they frequent "tippling shops," Gibbs declared.

Senator Frederick Butler of Lawrence retorted that the proposed Curtis law was so broad that it included "fiddlers, pipers, brawlers and pilferers," and that if the police chose to prosecute all who came within those classifications in the dictionary "some members of the State Senate would not be here next year." He said the bill would enable the police to persecute innocent persons against whom they had a grudge.

"I object to the statement made that the bill was aimed at 'the bums in the South End and Charlestown,'" said Senator Thomas F. Donovan of the South End.

"The principal and most vicious law breakers are highbrows and members of the higher social classes in the exclusive districts. Houses and flats are kept in the Back Bay by wealthy residents of the State for the meanest and lowest practices, yet the bill does not reach them.

"Murders and suicides occur quite frequently in the exclusive classes, as a reading of the day's newspapers will show."

FUND FOR TOTH CHANNEL SWIM BOOSTED TONIGHT

An all-star entertainment, including cabaret, wrestling and vaudeville, will be staged tonight in Paine Memorial Hall, to swell the fund that will send Charlie Toth to England this Summer to try the channel swim.

Harold and Lester McKay, who made a hit in the last show, will again be the wrestling principals. Al Johnson, Jim Lentivell, Jacob Hoff and John Linio will also feature.

The committee in charge of this fund is composed of James Snow, treasurer; William B. Wright, secretary; Thomas Lavelle, John Carney, Benjamin Cheney, Major White, John W. Shanley, Joseph Green, Robert Carney and Peter Chatelain.

Toth and his trainer, Gus Wise, expect to leave this country early in July.

DRAW TAFT INTO SENATE WRANGLE OVER MORSE

Washington, May 5.—Former President William Howard Taft and former Attorney-General George W. Nickerson were dragged today into the Senate "row" over the granting of a pardon to Charles W. Morse, in 1912. Senator Willis, Republican of Ohio, said Taft and Nickerson absolved Attorney-General Daugherty of charges made by Senator Caraway, Democrat of Arkansas, that he "influenced" the Taft administration to grant Morse's pardon. Letters from Taft and Nickerson were read into the record by Willis.

CONNECTICUT GAS TAX MAY YIELD $800,000

Hartford, May 5.—Automobile owners in this State spent $7,500,000 for gasoline in the past six months, according to figures given out by the motor vehicle department. These figures cover the Winter months of minimum usage upon which it is estimated that the expenditure for gasoline during the Summer months will bring the year's total to $20,000,000. If this estimate is correct, the State will collect in gasoline taxes nearly $900,000 at a one-cent a gallon tax rate.

STATE INQUIRY IS FAVORED ON LACK OF WORK

A State-wide investigation of unemployment by a special commission to be appointed by Governor Cox and the presiding officers of the Senate and House is provided in a bill reported favorably today by the House Ways and Means Committee.

The purpose of the proposed probe is to establish, if possible, a definite system to protect the wage earning public against depression that leaves a toll of misery in their wake.

The commission would be instructed to investigate the extent, nature and causes of unemployment. It would determine what methods of legislation, community effort and private initiative could prevent future depressions and also what effect seasonal fluctuations and overexpansion in private plants have upon conditions.

The idea of this probe originated with Representative Henry L. Shattuck of Boston.

TROUBLE STORY IN FOUR CHAPTERS

Morris Fisher, No. 67 Franklin street, Chelsea, was found guilty on four counts in the Charlestown Court today.

He was found guilty of keeping and exposing liquor for sale. This case was continued until June 26.

For failure to stop his automobile at the sign of Patrolman Milne, after it had been in a collision on Rutherford avenue, Fisher was fined $50. He appealed, and was held in $100 bonds.

For operating his automobile after his license was revoked, Fisher was found guilty and given ten days in the House of Correction. He appealed and was held in $100 bonds.

For continuing on his way after his automobile was in collision with that of Nathan H. Brody on Rutherford avenue, he was given six months. He appealed and was held in $500.

FREES ROXBURY MAN ON CONTEMPT CHARGE

Morris Bennett, Gaston street, Roxbury, was arraigned before Judge Ahearn in Roxbury Court today, charged with contempt in failing to appear when summonsed in the case against his son, Philip, fourteen years old, accused of violation of the auto regulations. When Judge Ahearn learned the man had been locked up all night and that his failure to respond to a summons was due to a misunderstanding, he placed the contempt charge on file and allowed Mr. Bennett to go.

BEVERIDGE'S MAJORITY IN INDIANA 20,472

Indianapolis, May 5.—Former Senator Albert J. Beveridge, Republican, won over Senator Harry S. New, for renomination, by 20,472, unofficial tabulation of the complete vote shows. Samuel M. Ralston, Democrat, former governor, had a total of 163,510 votes with 286 precincts missing, while his nearest opponent, Dr. Jesse Sanders, who made a campaign as a "wet" candidate, had 27,710.

PIERCE TO BE CLEARED, IS REPORT

Justice Edward P. Pierce of the Supreme Court will be exonerated of the charges of misconduct in office by the investigation committee of the Legislature, according to the belief prevailing in State House circles.

The investigation committee will hold its first executive session Monday to study the evidence and the arguments made by the lawyers for and against Judge Pierce.

But two methods of reporting its findings are left open to the committee, it is said. They must either find that the charges are sustained and report the bill containing an address to the Governor for removal of Judge Pierce or they must report that the petition for removal be given "leave to withdraw."

In either event, the committee is expected to report a lengthy statement, summarizing the essential facts in evidence and stating the reasons for its decision.

Some State House sources feel that the committee may say in its statement that Justice Pierce was not cautious in his relations with W. Edwin Ulmer, who sent him gifts of flowers, cordwood and vegetables from the Waban Rose Conservatories and the Henry Woods Sons Company, when Ulmer's estates were in litigation, but the feeling quite generally expressed today was that Pierce will be exonerated of the charges against him.

ROXBURY MAN IS HELD IN BREAK

Charles H. Bell, of Klondike street, Roxbury, was held in $1,000 bail today on a charge of attempting to break and enter the building at No. 2107 Washington street, Roxbury. He pleaded not guilty.

Bell was arrested after a chase by Patrolmen Hallett of the Roxbury Crossing station and Patrolman Fortin of the Dudley street station, who said they saw him near a side door of the building.

The building was entered some weeks ago, and $7,000 worth of silks stolen.

After the arrest of Bell, Patrolman Hallett attempted to arrest a man in an auto who appeared to be waiting in the vicinity, but the latter escaped. The machine was found abandoned later in Orchard street. The police said it had been stolen from former Representative Chapman in South Boston.

BELLS ON HER GARTERS THE LATEST IN PARIS

Paris, May 5.—Rings on her fingers and bells on her—not toes this time, but on her garters. This is what the gay little Parisians are wearing. And they make music when they take their morning walks in the Bois. In the afternoon when they take the daily exercise, off comes the musical garters for more useful ones with a most necessary timepiece. Dainty little gold or silver watches are embedded in folds of satin and help to hold up the stockings. Miss Lucky Lady wears a dainty horseshoe sachet of satin dangling on her leg as porte bonheur. Miss Globe Trotter hooks a neat little pistol on hers.

POWELL'S BODY TAKEN FROM HOUSE WHERE HE KILLED WIFE

FUNERAL OF WOMAN IS HELD

Services for Slayer Wait Until Tomorrow; Maids Defend Mistress

Relatives of the late William B. Powell are carrying on the feud which led to the murder of Mrs. Powell by her husband and his suicide immediately afterward.

This was evidenced when the body of Mrs. Powell's second husband was ordered out of the Chestnut Hill mansion where the tragedy occurred Monday last.

Powell's body lies in an undertaking establishment while the body of Mrs. Powell reposed in a casket in the palatial home, banked with floral tributes from her children and hosts of friends, until the funeral today.

W. E. Hebbert of Brookline, brother of the dead woman, has taken charge of her affairs. He is now living at the house of death on Chestnut Hill.

The house and estate where the tragedy occured was left to Mrs. Powell for her use during her life, by her first husband, R. H. White.

That Powell had absolutely no cause to suspect his wife of any clandestine relations with Maloney, the houseman, was the opinion expressed by the maids employed in the house and others who are familiar with affairs in the Powell household.

Mrs. John McCarthy, sister to Michael J. Maloney, houseman of the Powell Chestnut Hill estate, said that Maloney had seen Mr. Powell only three times in his life—on the Wednesday and Thursday preceding the murder, and on this night of the shooting.

Powell will be buried on Saturday afternoon in Mt. Auburn Cemetery. Rev. Barrett B. Tyler, rector of All Saints' Episcopal Church, Brookline, will officiate.

Forty Attend Funeral of Mrs. Powell

While the rain drove down in sheets the body of Mrs. William B. Powell, shot and killed by her husband in their Chestnut Hill home, was buried in the Hebbert family plot in the Mount Auburn Cemetery at eleven o'clock today.

The funeral service was simple and private. There was a short prayer and address by the Rev. Dr. Barrett B. Tyler, rector of All Saints' Church, Brookline. There was no music.

Forty persons attended the funeral, all of them relatives or close personal friends of the slain woman. The honorary pall bearers were G. E. Johnson, C. A. Hallowe, William Guiry and Mr. Townsend.

OPERATES ON CHILD AS ANOTHER FIGHTS FLAMES

The Dalles, Ore., May 5.—While fire swept the walls of an operating room, two surgeons here fought the flames and completed an operation on a child's appendix. Doctors V. C. Staats and L. A. Bollman had made an incision when the flames were noticed behind an overheated sterilizer. One plied fire extinguishers, while the other completed the operation. Dr. Staats was overcome by smoke.

Loretta Murphy, Who Is Missing After Death Threat

PARENTS FEAR MISSING GIRL IS DROWNED

Loretta Bernice Murphy, missing since she left her home at No. 299 Dudley street, Roxbury, to attend a mission in St. Patrick's Catholic Church, is believed by her mother to have drowned herself in Boston harbor.

The girl left for church on Tuesday, carrying her prayer book.

Her mother thinks that overstudy—she was only sixteen when she graduated from South Boston High School, and she has been studying continuously since—weakened the girl's mind.

A note, left her father by the girl, reads:

"It is my wish, if first it is God's will, that you and I should never meet on earth again."

Her parents are nearly prostrated with grief.

The girl's parents base their belief that she has been drowned in Boston harbor on her often repeated statements that the water held a strange, powerful attraction for her. She frequently told them, she said, that when she stood and looked in the water she felt an almost overpowering desire to jump in.

BONES GIVE CLEW TO SLAIN GIRL

New York, May 5.—"Rebuilding" of a skeleton found in the Haverstraw mountains near Thiells, N. Y., recently, has not only led to the identification of a murder victim, but has also furnished a clew to the slayers, New York private detectives announce.

The "remodelled" form of Miss Lillian White, twenty-four-year-old Brooklyn girl was identified by her sisters. The body was reconstructed with plaster of Paris by Sergeant Williams, identification and physiognomy expert.

Miss White's skull was crushed in three places and before Williams remodeled it, so plain were her features restored that Miss White's friends recognized the subject instantly, and as the result of information they gave, arrest of the murderer is expected soon.

SHIVERING TENANTS DEMAND HEAT AGAIN

Twenty-five cold, shivering rent payers today stormed the offices of Herbert E. Ellis, chief adjustor in charge of the Rent and Housing Committee at City Hall to protest against the lack of heat in their apartments. The sudden drop in temperature from Wednesday, the warmest May 3 in forty-four years, caused many apartments where the heat was turned off May 1 to be uncomfortable. Mr. Ellis at once communicated with all the landlords.

BRIG.-GEN. J. H. McRAE NOW MAJOR-GENERAL

Washington, May 5.—Selection of Brigadier-General James H. McRae, first assistant chief of staff, to be a major-general to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Major-General James W. McAndrew was announced today by Secretary Weeks.

Promotion of Colonel Harry A. Smith, infantry, to the grade of brigadier-general also was recommended. General McRae commander the 78th Division during its training at Camp Dix in France.

PAN-AMERICANS ARE GUESTS OF CARDINAL

His Eminence Urges Better Relations Between U. S. and Latin Republics

Cardinal O'Connell, in an address of welcome to the women Pan-American delegates, delivered today at the Archbishop's house in Granby street, declared that better relationship between the United States and South America, both governmentally and commercially, can be established when the proper approach is made.

He added that this can be done only when the people of the United States recognize the traditions and the civilization of the sister republics to the South.

He said:

"For a long time there has been a strong desire on the part of the people of the United States, and particularly on the part of her enlightened statesmen and of her progressive merchants, to establish a closer relationship between the United States and the republics of South America; but it seems to me we have been a very long time about it and have not as yet accomplished anything like what might have been easily accomplished if the right methods and the right road had been taken long ago."

BRING CARDINAL GREETINGS.

The women from South America were accompanied by women members of the families of the various consuls of Latin America resident here.

They were introduced to the Cardinal by Mrs. Charles I. Quirk. Each brought to Cardinal O'Connell the best wishes of their respective countries. The Cardinal replied to each in their native language.

The cardinal said in part:

"The United States has not quite realized the true method of approach to our sister republics of South America, and the reason is clear.

"The real difficulty is that the people who have had the government in their hands in America have been Anglo-Saxon, whereas the inhabitants, almost universally, of the republics of South America have been of the Latin race.

"As a result, they have not understood the temperamental qualities of the Latin. Neither have they made allowance for his old and very fine-toned civilization, which is and always has been his tradition, his inheritance.

SEES CLOSER RELATIONS.

"This difference of temperament and ideals between the ruling powers of the United States and those of South America has been the cause of this delay in our knowing each other better and understanding each each other better. But I think that day is now passed.

"I think that the wider outlook which has come to many Americans who are interested in matters of government and in matters of commerce by having travel in Europe and also in South America, has begun to have its essential results in a better understanding of what the traditional outlook of the Latin and the Catholic, when constituted into a national entity, is."

BLESSES DELEGATES.

The cardinal said the fact that the women were here today is proof that South America is doing all she can to further kindly and profitable relations between South America and the United States. He added that he had offered them a reception in his own humble way as an American citizen who loves his own country because he wished to do his part toward cementing these better relationships.

The cardinal said when he was in Rome he was visited by representatives of South America and each had invited him to visit that part of the Western Hemisphere because they felt he would do much to bring the North and the South Republics into more friendly contact.

At the end of his address the cardinal gave the women his blessing and then gave each a medal of the Sacred Heart, blessed by the new Pontiff, Pius XI.

After the reception the delegates visited the State House.

TO SAVE INTEREST ON WITHDRAWALS

Needy people, forced by distress to draw money from savings banks, will no longer suffer loss of interest money if the Legislature passes a bill reported by the Banks and Banking Committee today.

The bill provides that a depositor, instead of withdrawing the money, may borrow up to 90 per cent of his deposit by putting up his bankbook as collateral. The loan would be limited to the period when the next dividend became payable. The bank would be allowed to charge interest not exceeding one-half of 1 per cent for the loan.

Senator Wellington Wells of Boston said that large sums of money are lost by depositors who make withdrawals between the dividend dates.

TRUCE QUIETS DISORDERS IN IRELAND

By International News Service.

Dublin, May 5.—Disorders died down in Ireland today as a result of the truce between the Free Staters and the Republicans, but a tense situation exists. It is feared fighting will continue despite the armistice.

Seven persons—four Republicans and three Free Staters—were killed in a battle at Newton Cunningham in consequence of a mistake. The Free Staters, knowing that a truce had been negotiated, halted a party of Republicans to apprise them of the fact.

The Republicans, not knowing of the armistice, opened fire. The Free Staters returned the fire, and a pitched battle developed.

Several were wounded in addition to the killed.

Advices from Belfast said that regulars and irregulars are facing each other along the Ulster frontier, and that it is evident that it would require little effort to start a battle. Some disorder have taken place along the northern boundary, but responsible leaders of both factions are attempting to hold their men in line.

Dublin, May 5 (By the Associated Press).—The barracks at Castlepollard, West Meath, were blown up by irregular forces. The irregulars were pursued from Mullingar to Castlepollard by provisional government forces, and the barracks blown up to prevent their occupation.

Reports of the men who raided the bank at Buncrana, County Donegal, yesterday, were shot dead, according to late reports. A nine-year-old girl, wounded during the fighting died of her injury.

Charges Irish Rebels Used Explosive Bullets

Belfast, May 5.—Staff Captain O'Doherty said today that after the bank raid yesterday at Buncrana, County Donegal, a message was sent to I. R. A. headquarters at Drumboe Castle for reinforcements. Several hundreds of troops started, and while passing through Newtown Cunningham their car ran into an ambush, exploding 100 yards along the road.

Irregulars behind the walls opened heavy fire. The regulars, unable to find cover, ran straight through, with the result that three were killed and four wounded. One of the irregulars was killed and three were wounded.

The irregulars, Captain O'Doherty charged, used explosive bullets.

GOT 'NO-GOOD' CHECK FOR HOOCH, ARRESTED

Springfield, May 5.—Milton L. Marks, of New York, was indicted here today by the Grand Jury, charged with passing a no-good check for a quart of liquor, which he says he exchanged for a worthless check for $1,000. Marks told his story to the District Attorney seeking the arrest of the author of the check, and was himself indicted as a result.

Girl Badly Injured by Truck Given $16,000 Verdict

Margaret McGrath, fourteen years old, was given a verdict of $16,000 in the Superior Court today, in her suit against Reuben A. Fash for personal injuries.

On September 4, 1920, while Miss McGrath was returning with bundles to her home at No. 54 Parker street, Charlestown, she was knocked down at Parker and Cambridge streets, by an automobile truck owned by Fash and driven by Arthur Taylor. Her pelvis was fractured and she received other internal injuries.

PITLOCK BACK WITH WIFE.

"We were married eighteen months ago, and naturally had a number of petty quarrels. I know that he was friendly with Mrs. Hubbard and appreciated her kindness to him.

"The young wife's dream occured about the time young Pitlock, who fled the Hubbard home after being threatened by Hubbard, was engaging a room at the United States Hotel, where he spent the night, following the shooting.

Pitlock, who voluntarily told all he knew of the case to the police, has left for Chicago to rejoin his wife.

The Grand Jury began its probe of the shooting today. A large number of witnesses will be called by District Attorney O'Brien.

Mrs. Hubbard is still held without bail at Charles Street Jail. Assurances that her two sons, Joseph and Edward, will stand by her enabled her to regain her composure today, following a nervous breakdown yesterday.

CHEERED BY HER SONS.

Both sons visited her at the jail yesterday and promised her their aid in every way. Attorneys Willard P. Lombard and John P. Feeney, who will defend her, also conferred with her at the jail.

Relatives and friends are hopeful that after hearing the evidence, the Grand Jury will fail to indict her for murder. The most sanguine believe she will be absolved by the Grand Jurors, it being found she acted in self-defence.

In any case it is expected that the charge against her will be changed so that she can be admitted to bail.

JUROR OUSTED AT TRIAL OF GOV. SMALL

Waukegan, Ill., May 5 (By the Associated Press).—Two affidavits charging that Charles Melville, an Interurban motorman of Highland Park, who had been sworn as a juror for the trial of Governor Len Small, had discussed the case in the jury room were filed today before Judge Claire C. Edwards by the Governor's attorneys.

They were accompanied by a motion to reopen the panels already sworn to permit the defence to challenge Melville peremptorily.

After hearing the State, Judge Edwards granted the defence request, sustaining the peremptory challenge for the removal of Mr. Melville. The court granted the State two extra peremptory challenges as compensation.

The affidavits charged that Mr. Melville, in the presence of the other jurors, referred to Grant Park, a village in Kankakee County, as "the place where the Governor put the money in the fictitious bank."

HEIRS OF WOMAN WIN VERDICT

After a trial before Judge Quinn and a jury in Superior Court, which with interruptions has been going on for nearly a month, verdicts were returned today in suits of Lemma Hall administratrix of Ethel Burrell, against Katherine A. Fenelon, the College of Physicians and Surgeons, Elizabeth M. Shurtleff and Eugene Shurtleff.

The plaintiff claimed that the Burrell woman, who had suffered long from stomach trouble, was given corrosive sublimate instead of calomel, which she prescribed called for, and that death resulted.

The verdict against Fenelon was $1,775 for conscious suffering and $500 for the death of the Burrell woman; $1,275 against the College of Physicians and Surgeons for conscious suffering and $3,575 for death. The court ordered the jury to return verdicts in favor of the Shurtleffs.

This was the fourth trial of the cause.

HARVEY MUM ON GENOA OIL SUBJECTS

London, May 5 (By the Associated Press).—George Harvey, American Ambassador, who has been in the country most of the time since the opening of the Genoa Conference, returned to London today. He refused to comment on reports the Washington Government had instructed him to make inquiries regarding oil and other matters of American interest which might come before the economic conference.

MISSING FARMER IS FEARED MURDERED

Worcester, May 5.—state police officers learned today that John Moushanian, the Bellingham farmer who mysteriously disappeared April 4, drew $3,350 from a bank in Milford the day before. The police are working on the theory that he was murdered.

MRS. HONEYMAN GAINS STEWART MILLIONS

By the Associated Press.

New York, May 5.—Efforts of Lord, under H. Lacrance of Chicago and Martin Taylor of New York to get back their positions as guardians for Mrs. Martin-Stewart Honeyman, sole surviving heir of the multi-millionaire manufacturer, John K. Stewart, were blocked again today this time by the appellate division of the Supreme Court.

The decision was expected to bring an end to litigation in which an estate estimated at $100,000 has been involved.

What the court did today was to deny Messrs. Lorlamore and Taylor permission to appeal to the Court of Appeals from the appellate division's affirmation of Surrogate Bellenger's action in ousting them as guardians.

The surrogate held that since Mrs. Honeyman was of legal age in Chile, such suits must be considered of legal age in New York.

4 JAZZ BANDITS HELD IN $20,000

Daniel Kershaum, Bernard Arndt, Harry Davis and Morris Rosen, the "jazz bandits" were arraigned before Judge Dinsmore in Superior Court today on an indictment charging them with having burglars' tools in their possession. They pleaded not guilty and were held in $20,000 each for trial.

The "jazz bandits" were arrested in a South End hotel April 28, and the police gave their high sounding name because of the number of musical instruments found in their rooms, along with jimmies and similar tools. Bettina Londino, the girl companion of Davis, was also to be arraigned on an indictment charging a statutory offense. The lower court case against the "jazz bandits" has been dropped.

REVERSE DECISION TO EDITH KELLY GOULD

New York, May 5.—The order of Supreme Court Justice Guy, which would have granted Edith Kelly Gould $5,000 to reopen in New York State her suit to divorce Frank J. Gould, was reversed today by the appellate division of the Supreme Court. The justices unanimously denied her application for an allowance and held she had no cause for action.

INDICTMENT AGAINST C. R. FLINT DROPPED

The indictment against Charles R. Flint, New York business man, charged with participating in an $8,000,000 oil stock swindle, was dismissed by U. S. Attorney Robert O. Harris today. Mr. Flint was alleged to be one of about twenty defendants connected with the Petroleum Corporation of America, who were indicted by a Federal Grand Jury in charge of using the mails in a scheme to defraud.

COURT CLERK WILL CONTEST DISMISSAL

Ralph Jannini Claims Ousting Was Not Warranted by Chief Clerk Lord

Ralph Jannini, assistant clerk in the Boston Municipal Court, has been dismissed from service by Chief Clerk Edward J. Lord.

Out of the dismissal has grown a dispute that is rapidly developing into one of the stormiest rows the Pemberton square courthouse has known for a long time.

The evicted clerk's father, Ralph Jannini, Jr., a real estate dealer and chemical manufacturer of the North End, declares that his son was discharged for "inconsequential faults," and asserts that he and his friends will appeal to Governor Cox for his reinstatement.

GETS BLACK HAND LETTER.

Mr. Lord counters by declaring that he has received a Black Hand letter threatening him with dire things if he does not take young Jannini back, and asserts that Jannini and his relatives had threatened openly to "get" him.

Night before last, he said, Jannini's father and brother, Albert Jannini, called at his home in Allston and alternately begged and stormed in their pleas for reinstatement. During their interview, he said, Albert admitted being the author of the Black Hand letter.

As they left, Mr. Lord says, Albert turned and cried:

"I'm a Yale man and I'm big enough to get him, and I know a lot of Yale men in Boston who will get you."

Young Ralph Jannini, who is eighteen years old, threatens to make counter charges against Mr. Lord. The chief clerk says that he cannot imagine what form these counter charges will take, and adds that "under no circumstances" will he reinstate the youth.

CHARGES AGAINST CLERK.

Among the charges against young Jannini are that he indulged in dice games in the courthouse, that he "rough-housed" with police officers during working hours, that he refused to carry certain legal papers up from a basement floor, on the ground that it might get his hands dirty, and that he was generally an unruly clerk.

Young Jannini's friends have already visited Mayor Curley with appeals for action, it is said, Nothing came of this appeal, as far as can be learned.

They declare that the youth was found by Lord shooting dice with several other clerks in the court house. Although nothing was said to the others, they say, Jannini was severely censured.

Another of the counts against him, they assert, is that on one occasion he got into a scuffle with a police officer in a corridor of the court building. None of the charges are of much more weight than these two, they declare.

GAVE HIM NEW CHANCE

Mr. Lord, however, says that while these two incidents did take place, there are other more serious counts against the lad.

"I told his father two months ago that the boy was practically useless, and that I'd have to let him go," he said. "The father pleaded with me to keep him, and I did so. I gave the boy a chance, tried him half a dozen times, but it has done no good. That's what you get for being kind-hearted, as I've always tried to be."

The boy's father is Ralph Jannini of No. 297 North street, Ward 6. He is a real estate dealer and chemical manufacturer, with a Summer home at Winthrop. He is reported to be wealthy.

Members of the family declared that Mr. Lord's charges are untrue. Fully fifteen boys and men were engaged in the crap game mentioned, they said, and Jannini was the only one punished. They asserted that they have an appointment to see Mr. Lord today and request once more that the boy be reinstated.

FIGHT ONE-WAY BAN FOR TWO STREETS

The New England Shoe and Leather Associations, representing seventy-five business houses; the Master Teamsters' Association and the Boston American were unanimous in opposing the making of Lincoln and South streets a one-way thoroughfare, at a hearing held before the Street Commissioners today.

John J. Maloney of the circulation department of the Boston American registered his protest and outlined to the commission that if the proposition went through there would be a constant jam in the vicinity of Church Green at the junction of Summer, Lincoln, Bedford and Devonshire streets.

Mr. Maloney told the commission that both Lincoln and South streets were large thoroughfares with plenty of room to take care of two-way traffic and could see no reason why any changes in the present situation should be made. He said that the autos of the Boston American had no difficulty under the existing traffic regulations.

Thomas F. Anderson of the Shoe and Leather Association said that the two streets were primarily used by the shoe and leather trade, and urged the commission to forget about the proposed change.

He suggested that the Boston Elevated be requested to take up the track on South street to relieve some of the congestion.

Preston E. Corey of the Corey Leather Company, of No. 179 South street, thought that the trouble was in the parking of autos along the curbing and their violation of the privileges granted them. He also urged that the street car tracks be removed.

George F. Stebbins of the Team Owners' Association saw no reason why traffic should be restricted one way or another on either of the streets. H. W. Annabel, a truckman, objected to the plan, as did L. P. Sibley, representing Estabrook & Sibley, teamsters.

Officer Who Thought Y. D. Division Was "Worst in France"

GEN. FRANK E. BAMFORD.

EDWARDS READY TO TESTIFY IF CALLED

Probability that Major-General Clarence R. Edwards would be summoned to Washington by the Senate Military Affairs Committee was discussed among friends and admirers of the "Daddy" of the Twenty-sixth Division here today.

General Edwards, at the South Boston Army Base, said he would not go to Washington unless summoned.

He refused to discuss the hearing on the promotion of Lieutenant-Colonel Duncan K. Major, former chief of staff of the Yankee Division, or the charges made against him by witnesses.

The General's friends here, who are legion, believe, however, that he would welcome an opportunity to appear before the committee and tell his story of events up to the time he was relieved from command in France.

EULOGIZED THE 26TH.

While reports from Washington stated that neither General Pershing nor Edwards would be called, it was understood that some of the committee have changed their minds in this regard as the result of testimony by General Frank E. Bamford.

General Bamford, who relieved General Edwards, remaining in command of the division but a short time, testified that the 26th was the worst outfit in the A. E. F., because of the politics played by General Edwards and his staff.

This testimony was nullified under skilful cross-examination by General Edward L. Logan, who brought out that General Bamford himself had eulogized the division in a general order.

Many of these citations praised General Edwards personally for his efficiency and ability as a leader of soldiers.

EDWARDS HAMPERED.

It was also recalled that General Edwards might point to the fact that the War Department itself listed the 26th Division as one of the veteran divisions of the A. E. F. This was after the colors of the 104th Infantry were decorated by the French, at that time the second American regiment to be so honored.

General Edwards' friends say he could testify to the fact that, throughout the period when he commanded the division in France, he was continually hampered by orders from General Headquarters at Chaumont. His staff officers were subject to transfer at any and all times, and no sooner was one man properly broken in than he was sent to another organization.

It was declared, shortly after the signing of the Armistice, that young regular army officers were sent to the Yankee Division for training, enabling them to obtain experience as staff officers that they would not otherwise have secured.

The antagonism manifested toward Colonel Major by the men of the Twenty-sixth Division came as a direct reflection of the attitude of General Edwards, according to testimony from Lieutenant-Colonel Horsey, who declared that hostility to Major originated among the officers at division headquarters.

During cross-examination Horsey admitted that Major had recommended him for a Distinguished Service Medal. He had returned the compliment by recommending Major for the same order, he said.

He also said that Major told him that anyone who did not co-operate with him would be relieved.

The intense popularity of General Edwards was reflected when Horsey told of the enlisted men at a Y. M. C. A. moving picture show, cheering Edwards to the echo, while they received a picture of Pershing with hisses.

HUB POSTOFFICE TOO OLD, SAYS BARTLETT

Boston has the most antiquated postoffice of any large city in the United States declared First Assistant Postmaster-General John H. Bartlett, after an inspection tour today.

He came to Boston in connection with Postal Improvement Week. He inspected the main postoffice, frowned at its archaic interior and recommended that the equipment hoary with age be ripped out.

In connection with reported changes in the personnel of postal officials in Boston said to have been recommended by a committee of high postal authorities, Mr. Bartlett said:

"We have no plans to dynamite anyone here. We are running a business. Anything that can improve that business will be done. The report of the committee is handed to us and we act as a jury. We may adopt some of the committee's recommendations. Again, we may not.

"We may even send another committee to Boston. Anything that may be done in the way of changes here would be done naturally at any rate."

Mr. Bartlett today addressed a gathering of postal employes and members of the Boston Chamber of Commerce. Tonight he will be tendered a reception at Faneuil Hall by postal employes.

GIRL SAYS SHE STOLE TO BUY AUTOMOBILE

Portland, Me., May 5.—Eighteen-year-old Frances Linn, held on a charge of stealing $700 from the safe in the office of Foster, Avery & Co., where she was employed, is said to have confessed to police that she took the money because of desire to own an automobile. Francis X. Thomas, aged twenty-one, is being held as an accessory with her.

"This mop-water kills germs but doesn't hurt my skin"

"My skin is sensitive and chaps so easily. That is why I had never used disinfectants in scrubbing around the house. I felt positive that anything strong enough to kill germs would ruin my hands.

"But that was before I heard of Sylpho-Nathol. Mary Adams told me about it. She had used it for a long time. Her hands are soft and pink and pretty.

"I phoned the grocer. He said that he sold lots of it. And, following the simple directions on the bottle, I put a tablespoonful in a pail of warm water. The minute I wrung out the mop in that clean-smelling, pearly gray solution, I knew I had found the right thing.

"I use Sylpho-Nathol every day—in all the scrub water, in the sink pipe, in the cellar, in the garbage pail. Once or twice a week I use it around the bathroom fixtures, and as a flush for the closet bowl. I don't know what I'd do without it—it makes everything so sweet and clean and healthy smelling. And, best of all, it hasn't hurt my hands the tiniest bit—they're just as soft as Mary's."

Sylpho-Nathol is so safe—so effective, so easy to use, so economical. Sylpho-Nathol is 4½ times stronger than Carbolic Acid—yet it is as safe to have in the house as a cake of soap.

The unseen disease germs which live and thrive in even ordinary house dust don't linger where Sylpho-Nathol is used.

The annoying smells which persist in such places as closet bowls, damp cellars and garbage receptacles of the most scrupulously kept homes give place instantly to its faint, clean, friendly odor.

Sylpho-Nathol comes in 15c, 35c, 65c and $1.25 bottles. The complete, easy-to-follow directions are on the bottle.

Most good grocers and druggists have it. If yours hasn't, he can get it easily. Just ask for it by name—"Sylpho-Nathol."

REPORT BILL TO CURB BONDING BUSINESS

District Attorney Thomas C. O'Brien's campaign against professional bondsmen alleged to have defrauded the State and their clients of large sums of money bore the first fruits of victory today when the legislative Committee on Judiciary voted to report a bill to regulate the bonding business.

The bill provides that every professional bondsman must be registered in the court in which he intends to do business. He must put up proper surety to reimburse the State and the clients and to protect them against loss.

Any person who engaged in the professional bonding business without a license could be fined $1,000 or be sent to jail for a year.

One of the interesting requirements is that when the bondsman who has put up real estate as surety wants to place a mortgage on the property, he must first obtain the consent of the court in which the real estate was offered as surety.

POLICE CHIEFS TO CURB CRIME WAVE BY RADIO

A radio broadcasting station at Boston and one at Washington were suggested as means of combating the crime wave, at a meeting of the Massachusetts Chiefs of Police Association. The Boston station could notify every town and city in the State without loss of time, following a crime. The Washington station was suggested as a means of cataloging criminals and their movements throughout the country.

GERMANS URGE SOVIET YIELD TO ALLIES

By International News Service.

Genoa, May 5.—The German delegation today began to exert friendly but urgent pressure upon the Russians at the economic conference to have them accept the allied conditions for recognition of the Moscow Soviet government.

The Germans are doing this partly because they feel it is an opportunity to make new eastern friends by steering a moderate course and partly because Premier Lloyd George has made it plain to Chancellor Wirth and Foreign Secretary Walter Rathenau that he expected German assistance in persuading the Russians to accept the allied statement of conditions.

It is understood that in return the British Premier promised to do what he could for Germany on the indemnity question and to strive for any solution of the problem short of the invasion which is threatened by Premier Poincare of France.

In spite of the friendly efforts of Germany, there seemed little likelihood the Russians will accept the allied conditions in the shape in which they were made. The Soviet delegates realize that unconditional acceptance would be a death blow to their system.

"The Flapper Walk" Is Endorsed by Scientists

Washington, May 5.—"The flapper walk" received the endorsement of science in a paper before the American Neurological Association by Dr. Walter M. Kraus of New York.

It was brought out that the term "flappers" is not modern slang, applicable only to the American girl, but is a technical term describing the way we all walk.

Barthou Returns to Genoa From Paris

Paris, May 5, (By the Associated Press).—Vice-Premier Barthou, head of the French delegation at the economic conference, left for Genoa today. Premier Poincare urged M. Barthou to make an effort to reach an agreement with the allies on the memorandum to Russia that will satisfy the Belgians and not sacrifice the principle that the private property of foreigners in Russia must be respected.

The French government, it was said by an official of the foreign office today, has entered into no agreement concerning recognition of the Soviet government.

GOES TO GET HIS WIFE, HELD AT VANCOUVER

Henry A. York, No. 172 Broadway, Somerville, of the firm of C. L. York & Co., truckmen, North End, left Boston today to get his wife, held by the immigration authorities of Vancouver, B. C.

Mr. York told Chief of Police Charles A. Kendall of Somerville that Mrs. York had left home April 26, after drawing $6,000 of her own money and $2,000 in jewelry from the bank. He traced her to New York and thence to Montreal and Vancouver, where she arrived May 1.

At the request of Mr. York, Chief Kendall telegraphed to the Vancouver police authorities, asking that the woman be held for the arrival of her husband. This was done, according to dispatches from the British Columbia city.

Before leaving home, Mr. York declared he had no ill feeling against his wife, and is confident she will return with him. He could give no reason for her leaving home as she did.

3 ROMANCES IN M'CORMICK FAMILY

Chicago, May 5.—The McCormick family refused today to discuss three romances said to be budding within the family circle.

Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick, daughter of John D. Rockefeller and divorced wife of Harold F. McCormick, millionaire farm implement maker, refused to dignify by a denial reports she is to wed Edward Krenn, a Swiss architect now in Chicago. Through her secretary, she sent word she "did not care what the newspapers print about the matter." Krenn said: "It is too personal a matter to discuss."

Harold F. McCormick maintained silence in regard to reports he would wed Mme. Ganna Walska, Polish opera singer, when she obtained a divorce from Alexander Smith Cochrane. He refused to amplify a previous statement that he was "not interested in Mme. Walska's divorce."

Mathilde McCormick, seventeen-year-old daughter of the household, sent word she would see no more reporters who sought to question her regarding reports of her estrangement with her middle-aged Swiss fiance, Max Oser.

EX-SENATOR GRONNA OF NORTH DAKOTA IS DEAD

Lakota, N. D., May 5.—Asle J. Gronna, former United States Senator from North Dakota, died at his home here. He was 64 years old.

Mr. Gronna recently returned from Rochester, Minn., where he underwent an operation. Mr. Gronna was regarded as an authority on farm problems during the years he served in the United States Senate. He was author of several important bills, including the Federal farm loan and guaranty of bank deposits act. He is survived by a widow and three daughters, Mrs. R. F. Corwing and Mrs. Herbert of Washington, D. C., and Mrs. C. W. Lewis of Lakota, and his two sons, Arthur J. Gronna, Cambridge, Mass., and J. D. Gronna, Lakota.

SALEM YOUTH FALLS INTO CANAL AND DROWNS

Arthur Carr, young son of Martin E. Carr, was drowned when he fell from a railroad trestle over the North River Canal in Salem today. He was on his way to attend a children's service in St. James Church.

GRECIAN PRINCESS TO PAY VISIT TO AMERICA

Paris, May 5 (By the Associated Press). — Princess Anastasia of Greece has just returned to Paris from Cannes, much improved in health. She said today that in the Autumn after the royal wedding in Belgrade and Athens, she hoped to visit the United States, accompanied by her son, William B. Leeds, and his bride, who was the former Princess Xenia of Russia.

SECRET OF A GOOD DISPOSITION

A woman who carefully safeguards her health benefits her disposition. She will be happy and attractive to all. The world unfortunately is filled with sweet women who are unhappy because they are held back from success by frailness so common among them. Frailness and nervousness rapidly destroy good dispositions. Sickly, all-worn-out women cannot make happy homes.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a safeguard of women's health. This is clearly proven by the many letters we are continually publishing in this paper, from women who have been restored to health and happiness by its use after years of suffering. Why don't you try it?

CURLEY SAVES NEWSBOY FROM PAUPER GRAVE

Brave Victim Had Obtained Outings for Hospital Children in City Autos

For eight long years a crippled newsboy, John Gould, his body racked by a fatal disease that made it agony for him to stand up, sold papers, rain or shine, in the vicinity of Cornhill.

John Gould

When he died, a couple of days ago, he was without money or friends. No one knew whether he had any relatives. Preparations were made for burying his body in the Potters' Field.

"HAPPY" GOES TO MAYOR.

But "Happy" Rubinovitch, known as "King of the Newsboys," went to Mayor Curley. Four or five years ago this cripple had suggested to the other newsboys that they take crippled youngsters from local hospitals on an automobile holiday once each year. He had gone to Curley, who was Mayor at that time, and had secured from the Mayor the use of the city autos.

"Happy" recalled this fact, and asked the Mayor if the city could not do something to prevent the newsboy from being buried in a pauper's grave.

The city could do nothing. But Mayor Curley didn't intend to see the newsboy go neglected.

FROM CURLEY'S POCKET.

"Happy" left the City Hall with enough money to buy a lot in Mt. Hope Cemetery, where he will be buried. Mayor Curley had given the money out of his own pocket.

The newsboy was known to the other boys as John Gould. Death came to him while he was alone in his Revere street lodging house.

He had worked more than twelve hours daily, six days a week, for the past eight years, despite the fact that he was afflicted with tuberculosis of the hip. This entirely disabled one leg, which was amputated four years ago.

Weather Told Week Ahead by Sun Spots

Washington, May 5.—Weather can be accurately forecasted a week in advance by watching sun spots, Dr. C. G. Abbot, director of the astronomical laboratory of the Smithsonian Institution, has reported to the National Academy of Sciences.

The Weather Bureau of Argentine sent out forecasts a week in advance, based upon solar observations telegraphed us daily from the Smithsonian Observatory at Montezuma, Chile, Dr. Abbot said.

Any change in the sun's rays has an effect upon the weather and electrical conditions of the earth. The latter also affects radio communication.

BANS INJUNCTION IN ZONE FIGHT

Judge De Courcy of the Supreme Court today refused to grant an injunction enjoining the Board of Aldermen of Newton from considering an ordinance based on a recent act of the Legislature, to divide the city into zones. Under the proposed bill the city would be cut into single residence, general residence, business, manufacturing and unrestricted districts.

Judge De Courcy said the action is premature, as the Board of Aldermen might refuse to pass the proposed ordinance, which under the proposed ordinance would be restricted to single residences.

CONGRESSMEN WANT COAL-MINING FACTS

Washington, May 5.—Favorable report was voted by the House labor committee today on the Bland bill to create a fact finding commision for the coal industry.

GERMANY MUST GET AID, SAYS SCHIFF

New York, May 5.—That the relations between France and Germany are the key to the industrial situation in Europe at the present time and that the road to economic peace lies through Paris and nowhere else was the statement today of Mortimer L. Schiff, New York banker, who has just returned from Europe, in an address before the Hand Club of New York.

The French, according to Mr. Schiff, are realizing that the Versailles treaty cannot be executed exactly as written and that a reasonable amount of economic strength must be allowed the debtor nations if the maximum amount of reparations is to be secured. England, too, is facing facts and is convinced that economic barriers must be removed.

He pointed out that the United States was really the determining factor in the inter-allied debt relationship, and stated that a prompt determination of policy regarding the $250,000,000 worth of property still held by the alien property custodian would act as a stabilizer of international exchange.

HINGHAM CHURCH TO HAVE OWN DOCTOR

The plan to have a church physician has been adopted by the First Parish, Hingham. Dr. John A. Peterson of that town has been designated as the church doctor.

GUARANTEE WAGE FUND FOR GARMENT WORKERS

Cleveland, May 5.—A plan, providing regular workers of the garment industry with a guaranteed yearly minimum wage, was before delegates to the convention of the International Ladies Garment Workers' Union today. Under the proposed plan, both the workers and employers would contribute to a fund, out of which the workers would be paid during the dull season. The average garment worker is idle approximately 100 days a year.

GUARD SHERIFF WITNESS OF "MINE WAR"

By International News Service.

Charlestown, W. Va., May 5.—Don Chafin, picturesque mountain sheriff of Logan County and the Nemesis of the union miners who are standing trial here for treason and murder, was being anxiously awaited here today.

As star witness for the prosecution, he was expected to picture the famous battle of Blair Mountain and the part played therein by the indicted miners. Plans of the prosecution call for his being rushed here under heavy guard and then being whisked away again out of possible harm's way.

State troopers and army officers were prepared to go on the stand should Sheriff Chafin not show up.

The prosecution had succeeded today in definitely linking up youthful "Bill" Blizzard with the leadership of the miners' forces in the Indian Creek district, through testimony of United States army officers.

Major Charles G. Smart, in charge of the Federal forces, said he had appealed vainly to the men to lay down their arms. He said he then appealed to Mr. Blizzard and the men disarmed immediately upon his order.

Today the State had used only about thirty-five of its 400 witnesses.

Candy and Cigars, Ransom Price for Lynn Chinese

Fifty boxes of American candy, some lingerie and a supply of cigars is the ransom demanded by Chinese pirates for the return of Yee Dong Fey, an American born Chinese of Lynn who was captured near Canton, China, when the ship on which he was travelling was held up by the pirate, Long Saday.

Yee Dong Fey

Yee Nanbin, proprietor of a Boston restaurant, father of the young man, received a letter demanding the ransom. He reported the abduction of his son when he first received the news some weeks ago, and at the request of Senator Walsh, an American gunboat was ordered to the scene to investigate.

The lad was returning to China to take a position as instructor of English in a Chinese school.

MAE CARNEY HONORED BY FRIENDS AT BALL

Mae Carney, who has sung for many good causes, including the Boston American Christmas Basket Fund, was feted in gala style by her friends at a reception and ball in the South Boston Municipal Building. Senator Thomas P. Donovan led the grand march. Many prominent men were in attendance. Former District Attorney Joseph C. Pelletier sent greetings from Montreal.

REBELS CARRY PEKIN AFTER FIERCE BATTLE

Pekin, May 5 (By Associated Press).—Total casualties in the fighting outside Pekin between Chang's forces and the enemy are believed to have reached from 5,000 to 7,000 dead or wounded.

Pekin, May 5 (By the Associated Press).—General Wu Pei-Fu was in control of Pekin today, and General Chang Tso-Lin, whose forces he routed yesterday in a fierce battle south of the capital, was reported fleeing to Mukden. Chang's army is retreating in disorder toward Tientsin.

Observers here believe Chang's sudden collapse has ended the hostilities.

General Wu Attributes much of his success to the initiative of Feng Yuh-Siang, "the Christian General," who commanded the operations which resulted in the retreat eastward of General Chang's army. Wu declares he will continue to fight until Chang has been driven back to Mukden, of which he is military governor.

MANY PRISONERS TAKEN.

Last night crowds of soldiers from Chang's defeated army gathered outside the walls of Pekin, clamoring for admittance. At the southwest gate, where the railroad enters the city, they employed a locomotive in an attempt to ram down the gate, but were unable to gain entrance. City guards were sent out to disarm the stragglers.

Two thousand of Chang Tso-Lin's soldiers permanently kept in Pekin were disarmed, under orders from Wu Pei-Fu. This is regarded as eliminating Chang Tso-Lin's authority in the capital.

Outside the walls some of Chang's Manchurian soldiers refused to surrender, and were fired upon. Sixteen hundred of these troops were captured in one place.

DRIVES AT MACHANG.

Wu Pei-Fu's attack in this sector is believed to have been undertaken concurrently with similar drives at Machang on Chang Tso-Lin's southeastern front, and also on his middle front on the Hun River. Consular reports indicated that the fighting at those places was intense. No details were received, but it was reported that Chang Tso-Lin's army was forced to retire.

Allies Forbid Chinese To Attack Pekin Railway

Shanghai, May 5 (By the Associated Press).—A Pekin dispatch to the Sun Pao, Shanghai's leading Chinese newspaper, says the American, British and Japanese Ministers have instructed the naval commanders of their respective countries to prevent attacks by Chinese war craft supporting General Wu Pei-Fu upon the Pekin-Mukden railway at Taku and Chinwangtao.

The Portuguese Minister, as dean of the Diplomatic Corps, is also reported to have notified the Chinese Minister of Foreign Affairs that the diplomatic body insists upon fulfillment of the conditions of Tientsin protocol of 1901, declaring the recent fighting at Lukiuchao constituted a violation of the treaty because that place was within thirty miles of Pekin.

BOSTON SOCIETY GIRLS IN ACTORS' FUND SHOW

Twenty Boston society girls are to take part in the Actors' Fund of America benefit performance at the Tremont Theatre next Friday afternoon. RICH WIDOW OF 65 BRIDE OF AUTHOR, 32

Mrs. Van Heel to Allow Young Hubby Just Five Hours a Day to Himself

St. Louis, May 5.—Unlike Fanny Hurst, Henry Kiss Van Heel, Dutch sentrant to literary greatness, will not be separated from his wife more than five hours a day.

Van Heel is thirty-two. His bride of a month is sixty-five.

Mrs. Van Heel is the widow of the late James Campbell and heir to half of his $20,000,000 estate. Announcement of their marriage in San Diego, Cal., on April 15, was made today on their arrival in St. Louis.

"No one in St. Louis—excepting Mrs. Adolphus Busch—at whose home in California I met Henry two years ago, knew of our romance," Mrs. Van Heel said today.

Her daughter, Mrs. Eley G. Burnham, it is said, knew nothing of her mother's marriage until it was formally announced.

MET THROUGH FATE.

"It seems to have been fate that Henry and I should have met as we did," the bride smiled. "Henry had been in the United States before and had just returned the time we met."

Mrs. Van Heel, who says she will retain her first husband's name also, said that her young husband's singing was one of the things that attracted her to him.

"There was a mutual attraction when we first met," she recounted, "but I did not dare to hope that Henry loved me."

Here she paused and turned toward her youthful husband.

His response was a kiss, which she protested very mildly because of the open demonstration.

"In Europe we caress whom we love, no matter where we are," Van Heel replied.

"Henry is one of the brightest young men I ever met," Mrs. Van Heel said.

"A WONDERFUL MAN."

"You know there must be something wonderful about him or I should never have married him. You know what a wonderful man Mr. Campbell was. By the way, I shall keep his name and be known as Mrs. Florence A. Campbell Van Heel."

"That's right," the young husband smiled indulgently. "You may keep anything you want to."

"Henry expresses himself so wonderfully and writes such thrilling stories. He is going to write five hours a day. The rest of the time we are going to spend together," Mrs. Van Heel declared.

Mary Pickford Leads Move to Guard Players' Records

By Associated Press.

Los Angeles, May 5.—Mary Pickford has been chosen president of a club of motion picture actresses, the primary purpose of which is to protect the good names of its members.

Miss Helen Ferguson, organizer, said admission would be by investigation only, and none would be admitted who were not "credits to the industry." Other officers will be elected Monday when a name for the club will be chosen.

DECLARES MINERS SOUGHT REVOLT

By International News Service.

Charlestown, W. Va., May 5.—Warring miners, who took part in the armed march against State troops and deputy sheriffs in Logan County, W. Va., last Summer, declared they were starting a "nation-wide industrial revolution," Dr. L. P. Milliron of Philadelphia, who was living in Blair during the mine war, testified today at the treason trial of young "Bill" Blizzard, alleged generalissimo of the miners' army.

WILD PARSNIPS KILL SEVEN IN ONE FAMILY

L'Original, Ontario, May 5 (By International News Service).—Seven members of a family of nine died here today in horrible agony from eating wild parsnips in the belief that they were a species of celery.

Napoleon Le Croix found the parsnips in the woods. His wife cooked them and the pair were dead fifteen minutes later.

Le Croix's father, a man of seventy, ate only a teaspoonful. He lived for two hours. Meantime he witnessed the agonizing sight of his son, daughter-in-law and grandchildren staggering to their deaths and writhing in agony on the ground.

Neighbors who saw Mrs. Le Croix staggering into the yard summoned a doctor. Two children followed. Then the father tried to help them, but became frantic with pain. Death soon ended his own agony. His wife died at about the same time.

The doctor found that the two children had stumbled several hundred feet along the road, then collapsed. They were taken into a store and died.

Two other children, Marie and Hector, were found by the physician writhing on the floor in death agony.

The baby of the family did not partake of the dish, but another child, slightly older, did, and is in a precarious condition.

MAYO SAYS GIRL KNEW HE WAS MARRIED

New York, May 5.—Virginius St. Julian Mayo, charged with bigamy, took the stand today in his own defence. He said Miss Wilhelmina Meyer of Newark, N. J., the complaining witness, knew he had a wife living in Scranton, Pa., when he entered into a marriage of convenience with her.

It was at her suggestion, he said, the name "V. Julian May" was used in the marriage certificate. The certificate Miss Meyer desired in order to re-establish herself in the good graces of her wealthy grandmother.

"I told her that I didn't know how I could arrange a marriage legally," Mayo continued. "I said that although I hadn't heard from my wife in some years, I didn't know whether she was dead or alive."

Quick Action on Bonus Bill, Says McCumber

By International News Service.

Washington, May 5.—The soldiers' bonus bill will be reported from the Senate Finance Committee and laid before the Senate within a week, it was announced in the Senate today by Senator McCumber of North Dakota, the committee chairman. McCumber predicted that the House measure, revised by him, would be passed "within a day or two" after it reached the Senate, the tariff bill being pushed aside to make way for the speedy enactment of the compensation legislation.

TRAPPED IN SILK LOFT, HELD AS GANG LEADER

Patrolman William J. O'Connell, two months on the force and without an arrest to his credit, became the hero of his division today by frustrating a bold attempt to loot the storage loft of Julius Brener at No. 27 Albany street, South End, of silks worth $5,000.

Two loft robbers had ninety-six bolts of silk piled in a one-horse wagon, ready to haul away, when the officer came upon them.

O'Connell arrested David Rubin, thirty-five years old, who was in the wagon, but the second man darted back into the loft building and escaped by a rear window into a maze of alleys. Rubin was arraigned in Municipal Court charged with breaking and entering and robbery.

The police believe that in Rubin they have a member, if not a leader, of the gang of loft robbers which has within a year conducted twenty-five fur and silk jobs in the Lagrange street division.

Patrolman O'Connell arrested Rubin on a "hunch," despite the plausible story the latter told of his connection with the Brener company. The officer marched Rubin, at the point of a revolver, into the loft building, in search of his alleged accomplice, then marched him along the street toward the police station until they were met by a sergeant.

The men gained entrance to No. 27 Albany street by forcing the front door and two smaller doors in the Brener loft, and by smashing two windows.

CHINESE DEATH CASE BEFORE GRAND JURY

The Suffolk County Grand Jury considered the cases of Fong Jow and Ang Lock, the two Chinese held charged with the murder of Donald S. Dunn, otherwise Ung Shee Ging, Chinese student at Northeastern College Law School.

Consequently their cases were continued when called in Central Court. Jow and Lock were remanded to Charles Street Jail. The three Chinese held as accessories after the fact to the murder were released in $5,000 bail each.

Myrtle Owens Hogan, of Rutland square, South End, the white woman who dined with Fong Jow the night before the murder, was ready to testify today had the cases gone to a hearing.

Fashionably garbed, the attractive white girl, looked far out of place in the courtroom crowded with Orientals.

Mrs. Hogan, who is twenty-four years old, dined with Fong at a Washington street restaurant on the night before the murder.

DINED WITH FONG JOW.

"My wife knew nothing of Fong Jow's plans, and is not connected with the case in any way," Richard Hogan, her husband, stated to a Boston American reporter.

The night before the murder was the only time Mrs. Hogan ever met the Chinaman outside of the restaurant which he formerly operated at No. 27 Court street. He opened a restaurant there less than a year ago, and my wife got a job as waitress. He failed last January, and sold out to another Chinaman, and my wife stayed on there.

"On the afternoon before the murder, Fong, she says, called her up and made an appointment to take her to dinner at another restaurant. She went there and had dinner with him, but not caring to be seen with a Chinaman on the street she went home alone after he called a taxi for her.

HUSBAND LOYAL TO HER.

"I knew nothing of the affair until I read it in the papers. She knew nothing of Fong's intentions or his business affairs when he ran the restaurant and her connection with the case is so slight that she will probably not testify when the case is tried."

Mrs. Hogan has been married to Mr. Hogan for two years and her husband, although remaining steadfast to her, is distressed as a result of his wife's connection with the case.

$30,000 FIRE LOSS AT BRIDGEWATER PLANT

Bridgewater, May 5.—The drying and boiler rooms of the Bridgewater plant of the Brockton Heel Company were destroyed by fire today. The loss is estimated at $30,000. The fire started in the drying room and was discovered by the night watchman. A brick wall halted the flames as they swept toward the main building, which is valued at several hundred thousand dollars.

Leather board is manufactured at the local plant to be turned into heels at the Brockton factory.

SERGEANT BISHOP OF FORT BANKS DEAD

Provost-Sergeant George F. Bishop, the oldest regular soldier attached to Fort Banks, died today at the home of his sister, Mrs. Lucretia Johnson of No. 38 Beals street, Winthrop, after a long illness. He was born in Philadelphia forty-six years ago and enlisted in the army in April, 1898. He headed the first detail of soldiers from the Seventh United States Artillery to Winthrop at the time Fort Banks was established.

Fresh From Paris—

Paris, France.

MARTIAL and Armand are among the couturiers who use the sleeve as deep as the bodice—which, in this low-waisted model of black grain de poudre, is saying much! The sleeves are cut in one with the bodice and the coat skirt hangs straight and slim from the waistline. Monkey fur makes the collar and the swirling decoration.

THE cape that goes so much of the way toward the success of a coat here attaches itself to one designed by Lanvin for the young lady of eight or thereabouts. It is of olive green crepe de chine, embroidered in points and dots of black, and may wear its collar either standing or flat, according to the weather.

U. S.-GERMAN CLAIMS BOARD TO BE FORMED

Washington, May 5.—Negotiations are under way between the United States and Germany, it was said in officials circles today, looking to the organization of the mixed claims commission which will pass on claims growing out of the seizure of property in the United States and Germany, and on claims filed with the United States government by American citizens as result of the sinking of the Lusitania. The commission probably will consist of one American, one German and a neutral

REV. F. B. BOYER IS SILENT ON WIFE'S SUIT

The Rev. Francis B. Boyer, former curate of the Church of the Advent, refuses to discuss the divorce suit which his wife, Mrs. Catherine G. Boyer, has filed against him.

To all questions the youthful minister, who has incidentally left the ministry to become a garageman, replies: "I have nothing to say."

The Rev. Boyer is the same curate who was involved in the tragic death last January of Bernice Boucher of Commonwealth avenue, who called for him repeatedly while dying from poison tablets that she swallowed.

At that time Mrs. Boyer asserted she would stand by her husband despite the disclosures that had been made.

It was believed at the time, however, that Boyer had been obliged to sever his relations with Mrs. Boucher by his wife's threat that she would divorce him if he did not.

Now, in her divorce suit, Mrs. Boyer accuses him of infidelity and asks the right to name a co-respondent. It is thought that she will name the deceased Mrs. Boucher.

Mrs. Boyer is, incidentally, a niece of Mrs. Jack Gardner.

Mr. Boyer will not state whether or not he will contest the divorce suit.

BALTIMORE NURSE GETS 20 YEARS AS SLAYER

Montrose, Va., May 5.—Miss Sarah F. Knox, Baltimore nurse, faced twenty years' imprisonment today after having been found guilty of first degree murder in connection with the death of Mrs. Margaret L. Eastlake.

The jury reached its verdict, recommending the twenty-year term, after thirty-five minutes' deliberation. The court commented that the decision was "most lenient."

JEWISH RELIEF FUND REACHES $376,000

The largest day yet in contributions to the Greater Boston Jewish War Relief campaign, was reported at a meeting of the campaign workers at the City Club, when more than $30,000 was turned in, making the total raised to date $376,000.

The members of the Chelsea committee were the heroes of the meeting, with the announcement of David A. Lourie, chairman of the committee of the successful conclusion of the drive in Chelsea, with more than $28,000 in cash contributions raised. The whole assembly, led by Leon Strauss, Julius Eisemann, Albert W. Kaffenburg, Sidney S. Conrad, E. J. Brody and other directors of the Greater Boston campaign giving three cheers for the volunteer workers of Chelsea.

Using the slogan, $500,000 by Tuesday," the 2,000 volunteer workers started an intensive drive to carry the city's total over the half-million dollar mark by next Tuesday noon. Announcement was made that the headquarters of the campaign has been moved from No. 219 Washington street, to the West End Y. M. H. A. Building, No. 47 Mt Vernon street.

Reports from trades teams totalled $27,000, and the solicitors in the wards turned in $16,500. The suburban districts reported as follows: Everett, $2,500; Cambridge, $9,000; Revere, $4,500; Beechmont, $1,700; Somerville, $2,500; Winthrop, $2,000.

LONDON DEMAND BLL AT HIGHEST SINCE 1919

New York, May 5.—Exchange rates on London today rose to $4.44¼ for demand bills, the highest price since 1919. The strength was attributed to extensive buying of bills here and in the london market to meet cotton and grain payments.

TROWBRIDGE WILL CASE ENDED OUT OF COURT

The fight of Mrs. Emma T. Kingsbury, of Chicago, to break the will of her sister-in-law, the late Mrs. Flora A. Trowbridge of Franklin, who left her fortune to George Uebelacker, former employe of her husband, ended suddenly today in Dedham Court. It was announced that lawyers had effected a settlement out of court. They would not mention terms, but is was understood Mrs. Kingsbury and others would divide an amount of cash said to be $20,000.

Judge Burns ordered the jury foreman to find a verdict exonerating Uebelacker of the charge of having influenced Mrs. Trowbridge to leave the bulk of her estate of $110,000 to him.

FOREIGN HONOR FOR ELEVEN N. E. HEROES

Eleven New England veterans of the World War or their relatives today received from the hands of Major-General Clarence R. Edwards, commanding the First Corps area, decorations were elaborate despite the inclement weather, and were held at the headquarters of the First Corps, Army Base. A ful battalion from the training centre took part in the ceremony.

Four of the awards were posthumous, made to the next of kin of the soldiers who also won the American Congressional Medal of Honor, by the King of Italy.

One woman was among those thus decorated. She was Mrs. Abigail A. Turner, mother of Lieutenant William Bradford Turner, 105th Infantry, of the Twenty-seventh Division.

Those decorated were: Colonel Frank C. Boiles, oak leaf cluster, in lieu of second award of Distinguished Service Cross, for extraordinary bravery in command of a machine gun detachment during the attack on Jaro, Panay, Philippines, February 12, 1899; oak leaf cluster for extraordinary heroism at Seicheprez, France, September 26, and near Bois-de-Pays, France, September 28, 1918; Robert Lee Harper, formerly captain Ambulance Service, No. 74 Moraine street, Jamaica Plain, Chevalier of His Order of the Crown of Italy; Lieutenant-Colonel Wilson B. Burtt, assistant chief of staff, First Corps, Officer of the Legion of Honor, France.

Dr. George D. Whiteside, Greenwich, Conn., Medaille d'Honneur des Epidemies, silver gilt, France; New Hampshire, Leondas A. Noel, Berlin, Medaille d'Honneur des Epidemies, bronze, France; Dennis McSweeney, No. 153 Park street, Beverly, Chevalier of His Order of the Crown of Italy; Frank H. Whittemey, father of the late Major Charles W. Whittlesey, commander of the Los Battalion, Croix di Guerra (Italian).

Earl Paules, No. 268 Highland street, Worcester, Mass., Chevalier of the Order of St. Maurice and St. Lazarus (Italy); Michael J. Perkins, father of the late Michael J. Perkins, former private in Company D, 101st Infantry, Yankee Division, No. 161 West Sixth street, South Boston, Italian Croce di Guerra; Antonio Dilboy, father of the late George Dilboy, No. 85 Linwood street, Somerville, Italian Croce di Guerra; Mrs. Abigail A. Turner, mother of the late Lieutenant William B. Turner, Cushing House, Dedham, Mass., Italian Croce di Guerra.

Lieutenant Turner and Privates Perkins and Delboy were also posthumously awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor.

2,000 AT OPENING OF WILD FLOWER EXHIBIT

More than 2,000 flower lovers ignored the wet weather and visited the first wild flower exhibition ever attempted in the United States, now open at Horticultural Hall. The exhibition is free, and will continue until next Thursday. Not one of the flowers in the hall have been cut, but all transplanted, and are growing in the building.

Albert C. Burrage of Beverly Farms, president of the Massachusetts Horticultural Society, has had charge of the work of preparing the exhibition. He has arranged a glen, redolent with the scent of hemlock and spruce, and through which runs a tiny brook, fed by a waterfall.

BOSTON TEMPLE PLACE ELEVEN

Top-Coat Service For the Woman

Top-coat service is not limited to men. This season, among women, the top-coat is an intimate friend. It fits into most situations admirably, and makes itself useful. It covers up the defects of a worn frock, and acts as foil when the frock is the last word in Fashion. It may be straight, or it may drift into cape curves, but top-coat it remains—friend in need and friend indeed.

BETTY ALDEN'S COMMENT ON BOSTON SOCIETY

Boston Buds Bridesmaids at Coming Naval Wedding

By BETTY ALDEN

THERE are two ceremonials of great interest in naval circles taking place next month, and Boston is to be represented at both affairs.

No less than ten bridesmaids will don the charmingest of frocks for the marriage of Miss Ann Wickes Craven, daughter of Captain and Mrs. Thomas T. Craven, to Lieutenant Rodman deKay, U. S. N. The ceremony will attract a large throng of notables to St. Matthew's Episcopal Church in Jamestown, R. I., where it will be solemnized on June 10.

Miss Jocelyn Parker of Boston is one of the ten bridesmaids, the other nine being the Misses Catherine and Sylvia deKay, Gordon Woodbury, Catherine Wharton of Philadelphia, Harriett and Aroostine Scales, daughters of Rear Admiral and Mrs. Archibald Scales; Ariminta Veeder and Martha Harris of Washington and Georgianna Hicks, daughter of Congressman and Mrs. Frederick C. Hicks. Mrs. J. Bertram Lippincott of Philadelphia will be matron of honor, and the maid of honor will be a cousin of the bride, Miss Zagues DeJonge, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emil DeJonge of Fitchburg.

Lieutenant deKay, who is attached to the destroyer Goff, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles deKay of New York. Ormonde deKay will serve as best man for his brother. The group of ushers include Robert Hale of Boston, Commander Theodore Jewell, Adrian Drake deKay, another brother; Thomas T. Craven, Jr., Lieutenant Paul Althouse and Lieutenant A. V. Ruell, as well as several young ensigns.

Miss Parker, who is to be of the bridesmaids, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Parker of Sparks street, Cambridge. The Parkers have a Summer home in Jamestown, R. I., and it was there Miss Jocelyn became acquainted with the bride-to-be, whose parents also have an estate in Jamestown, where they spend the warmer months.

Following the ceremony there will be a reception for 200 guests at the Jamestown Casino.

THE other nuptial event is of special interest to naval circles, for Miss Julia Averill Belknap, who will become the bride of Lieutenant Andrew R. Mack, U. S. N., is the daughter of Captain Reginald R. Belnap, N. S. N., and Mrs. Belnap.

The event is to take place on June 17 at St. John's Episcopal Church, Newport, R. I.

The bride-to-be, who is one of the most attractive debutantes residing in Little Rhody's famous watering place, has selected her sister, Miss Georgiana Belknap, as her maid of honor. The other attendants will be Miss Emilie Field Belknap, another sister; Miss Mary Jocelyn of Boston and Miss Helen Jenkins of New York. The bride's father, Captain Belknap, is at the Naval War College.

APROPOS of weddings, the Rev. Nielson Poe Carey, who, as rector of St. John's Church in Beverly Farms, has officiated at the smartest ceremonials taking place on the North Shore, left on the first of the month for a European trip of six weeks.

During Mr. Carey's travels abroad the services at St. John's will be conducted by the Rev. Angus Dunn of the Episcopal Theological School in Cambridge. Throughout this month services will be held at 11 a. m. and at 10.30, beginning the first Sunday in June. During the absence of the Rev. Mr. Carey there will be no Sunday evening services or Sunday school meetings.

St. John's Church is probably the most fashionable house of worship along the North Shore, society folk from all parts of the shore coming there. Though the church is quite small, practically all of the most important weddings taking place along the shore are solemnized there, and already have several brides signified their intention to "love, honor and obey" at St. John's this coming month.

BEFORE she became the bride of Arthur Lawrence Derby, Harvard '05, Mrs. Derby was Miss Jeanette Barr of New Orleans, the city noted for its gayety and charming girls.

Mr. Derby met his bride some seven years ago in her native city, where he was then engaged in business for some years following his graduation from Harvard. The former Miss Barr is the daughter of the Rev. William Alexander Barr of New Orleans. Mr. Derby is the son of Mrs. Hasket Derby of Hereford street, and a number of Bostonians made the trip to the city famous for its Mardi Gras festival to be present at the marriage of the couple.

During the past season Mr. and Mrs. Derby have been making their home at No. 8 West Hill place. Mrs. Derby, I recall, took part in Mrs. Alfred Codman's gorgeous fashion show, which was one of the many hits of "Why Not?" presented about a month ago by society folk.

Random Notes of Society Folk in Town and Country

AFTER extensive travels in the South, Mr. and Mrs. William D. Sohier, Jr. (Elaine Denegre), of Boston, have arrived in New York, where they are stopping at the Hotel Chatham. The Sohiers, after spending the major part of the Winter at New Orleans, sojourned for some time in Palm Beach. After concluding their visit at the latter resort, they were the guests of Mrs. Sohier's parents, the Walter Denegres, at their home in Washington.

Mrs. Gardner Hall has returned to her home on Marlboro street, after spending a few days in Newport to visit her son, who is at St. George's School.

Miss Amy Peabody is returning to Boston tomorrow night from her California trip, where she was for some time at the Hotel Del Coronado, Coronado Beach. Miss Peabody, who is an officer of the Brush and Chisel Club, is the daughter of Mrs. William Storer Eaton of No. 120 Commonwealth avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. William Dana Orcutt of Commonwealth avenue have concluded their sojourn at Hot Springs, Va., and are on their way North.

Mr. and Mrs. T. Jefferson Newbold (Katherine Hubbard) of Beverly Farms, are receiving congratulations upon the birth of a daughter. The Newbold estate at the Farms is known as "Apple Orchards."

The President and Mrs. Harding on Tuesday received at the White House the delegates to the convention of the Women's Overseas Service League, now in session at the capital. Later in the afternoon Mrs. Larz Anderson gave a tea for the delegates.

MAN DEAD BY GAS; BLANKET OVER HEAD

Oscar E. Mulert, seventy-seven years old, a retired baker, was found dead at his home, No. 12 Beacon terrace, Somerville, today. He was sitting in the kitchen with a blanket over his head. Gas was escaping from a tube which hung by his side. The body was discovered by his son, William F. Mulert.

NEW WITNESS FOR SACCO AND VANZETTI

Testimony given by Roy E. Gould, a new witness, is given as the basis for a motion for a new trial of Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti, convicted a year ago of the murder of Paymaster Parmenter and his guard, Alessandro Berardelli, at South Braintree. This motion was filed at Dedham Superior Court by Attorney Fred H. Moore for the prisoners.

Mr. Gould, whose coat was pierced by a bullet fired by one of the fleeing bandits who killed the paymaster and his guard, has now come forward and attacked the identification of Sacco.

In this he is supported by an affidavit by Louis Feiser, one of the government witnesses, who testified at the trial that Sacco is "the dead image" of one of the bandits. He now asserts that he was hardly sane when he gave this testimony.

Gould is an itinerant pedlar. He disappeared after the shooting. He gives his address as No. 317 Columbus avenue, Boston, and says that he was on the road in Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island during the trial.

He says he was brought into the case by Frank J. Burke, who met him in Portland, Me., got his story, and then wrote to Attorney Moore.

In his affidavit Gould says that he was in South Braintree on the day of the murder. He asked the station agent when the men of the factory on Pearl street would be paid off, and the latter replied, "There goes the paymaster now."

He says he followed Parmenter and the guard, heard the shots that killed them and saw an automobile coming up Pearl street. As it passed him a man fired one shot at him, the bullet going through his coat.

He swears that Sacco is older, heavier and broader than the man in the automobile.

ROSCOMMON SOCIEY IN ROXBURY CELEBRATION

A May party in Hibernian Hall, Roxbury, celebrated the twentieth anniversary of the founding of the Roscommon Association, in which all former residents of County Roscommon, Ireland, and their descendants took part. Among the guests of honor were Frank M. Tiernan, president of the Central Council of Irish County Associations, and former State Treasurer Frederick W. Mansfield.

"LIFER" SIMPLIFIES FINGER-PRINT SYSTEM

San Quentin Cal, May 5—A finger print system, for use in banks, insurance establishments and all other places where personal identification is necessary, has been devised by a life termer at the State Prison here and is being studied by experts throughout the country. The system calls for but a single print and greatly simplifies the processes now employed by police departments.

ORIENTAL COLORS TO BE FAD NEXT FALL

New York, May 5—The Textile Color Card Association of the United States Inc. has released to the trade the Autumn color card. It contains eighty colors, sixty-six of which are portrayed in silk and twelve in woolen fabrics. On the card reds, blues and orange, reflecting Oriental and Russian influences of the mode, are prominent in evening shades. Purples also are conspicuous. Shades of brown suggest the Far East. Among the woolen group there is a novel tan shade called pigskin. A distinctly new red is introduced called akbar.

MOVIE WORLD NEWS AND COMMENT

By FRIEDA DAVIS

THE Warner Brothers have shown distinct business ability in their manner of entering the motion picture production field. They have, within comparatively few months, become a concern of importance.

Their first production was designed as a box office attraction, pure and simple. It was the adaptation of that good old melo drama, "Why Girls Leave Home." With that film they managed to become a factor with the exhibitors and distributors for they managed to keep the houses packed during their engagement. Not only that but they made enough money to keep going on their next productions.

The second, "School Days," featuring Wesley Barry, won some friends and more attention from the business world of the film industry. One cannot work along the art for art's sake idea on an empty exchequer. Hence the Warner Brothers' melodramatic start.

"YOUR BEST FRIEND."

THEIR newest production, "Your Best Friend," featuring Vera Gordon, who made her mark as the mother in the Cosmopolitan prize picture "Humoresque," was given at a private showing a few days ago. This film is another of the "family films" devoted to showing how downtrodden is the mother of a family.

One could easily tire of such pictures, for we have had "Over the Hill" and "The Old Nest" and several others of that sort. No sooner did one score a hit than all the producers hastened to film such stories while the public seemed to want them.

Vera Gordon

Today a "mother" story must be exceedingly well done to wring much feeling from an audience. "Your Best Friend" is such a film. The mother seems to me to justify sympathy far more than did Mrs. Aronson in "The Old Nest" or the mother in "Over the Hill." They, particularly the former, had simply let the world and its activities go by them and in that way had lost their hold not only on the children [illegible] on [illegible] ies. They [illegible].

Vera Gordon [illegible] the shining light of the production [illegible] the story is woven about her. She plays with understanding and conviction. GRANDMOTHER DEFENDANT IN LOVE CASE

Fist Fight Between Rival Women and Hotel Raid Revealed in $250,000 Suit

New York, May 5 (By International News Service)—The intimate details of a battle which was waged by two coarse women in the Hotel Pennsylvania came to light today when Mrs. Sadie Goldberg, twenty-seven years old and a $250,000 suit against Mrs. Ray Parker, forty-five, the mother of eight children, a grandmother and the wife of a millionaire clothing manufacturer, alleging alienation of Mr. Goldberg's affections.

Mrs. Goldberg is also suing her grandmother husband for divorce.

The action filed against Mrs. Parker states that Mrs. Goldberg, accompanied by two men friends, went to the hotel room a month ago at midnight, where Goldberg was found in the company of Mrs. Parker, the grandmother.

Both were in scanty attire, it is charged. The grandmother dashed into a bathroom, the action declares.

Bathing Girl and Lobster Are in Hard Luck

Washington, May 5.—The bathing girl and the lobster have suffered alike from pollution of navigable waters by oil-burning ships, the House Foreign Affairs Committee revealed today in a report on a resolution requesting the President to call a conference of maritime nations to stop it.

Aside from the fire hazard resulting from the piling up of oil waste along the docks, the report showed that on the Atlantic, Pacific and the Gulf, lobsters, oysters and fish of all sorts were being destroyed to an alarming extent.

WILL TEST SANITY OF TEN-YEAR-OLD SLAYER

Cincinnati, May 5.—Robert Luthehaus, ten years old, who shot and killed Richard Abraham, aged four, while they and Richard's six year old brother, George, were in the Luckehaus apartments, will be examined by psychologists of the Juvenile Court. The boy will also be taken to Columbus for examination by State mental experts.

George Abraham said Robert shot because Richard did not pick up some papers from the kitchen floor. Robert said he wanted to frighten the boys "in fun."

POISON KILLED MISS HANNA, CHOIR GIRL

By International News Service

Hoopeston, Ill., May 5. Examination of the vital organs of Miss Gertrude Hanna, choir leader and girl revealed poison, it became known today.

The authorities regarded this fact as the most important development since the finding of the girl's body days ago on the Illinois Prairie, it was said.

New light is [illegible] in the search for Miss Hanna's slayer as expected [illegible] the discovery that poison was given her.

Hard to Fit?

Put It Up to Kuppenheimer

LOTS of men say they are hard to fit. They think it must be so because some tailor told them so. They'd like the convenience and economy of ready-to-wear suits, BUT---style and fit, you know.

Yes, we know. And we know also that The House of Kuppenheimer has either originated or perfected about every style innovation of recent years, while your tailor trails months behind.

And furthermore, we know that with all Kuppenheimer's different models, sizes and proportions, it's a peculiarly built man indeed who cannot get a perfect fit out of our vast stock of

Kuppenheimer Suits

Besides the regulars, there are longs in all sizes and extra long longs, shorts in all sizes and extra short shorts, stouts in all sizes and long stouts and short stouts, "Forewards" for stoop-shouldered men and semi-stouts for those who are half way between regular and stout. Put it up to Kuppenheimer and to us. If we can't fit you, certainly no other store can.

BACK BAY GIRL SAVED IN CHINESE BATTLE

As the Chinese troops advanced to commence battle, a hail of bullets and shrapnel swept near Mrs. Atherton. She stood in the path of two hostile forces. Americans, French and English joined in bringing her to safety.

MRS. RAY COOLIDGE ATHERTON

Question Box for Radio Fans

E. B. E., Stoneham.—Lightning switches, leadins and ground wires do not need to be kept five inches from the building except for transmitting sets. A six-foot brass rod driven into the earth should be sufficient ground.

J. A. C., Boston.—An aerial attached to the fire escape would not be the best kind, as the iron would absorb some of the energy. Also the aerial should be higher than the surrounding buildings. With such an aerial it is doubtful whether you would hear anything except Medford without considerable amplification. In your diagram you have reversed the position of your A and B batteries and you would be very likely to burn out your tubes. Loud speakers are connected according to the instructions of the manufacturer.

E. W., Framingham.—Most broadcasting is done on 360 meters. The schedules of the various stations appear in this paper. The telephone wave is a damped one because of the voice modulations. It can be received with a crystal detector. The adding of turns increases the wave length and the cutting out of turns decreases the wave length.

R. C. T., Rutland.—The zinc used in dry cells could be used for the plates of a variable condenser. A variable condenser is very difficult to make, however, as the plates must be very close together, and yet not touch.

S. A. I., Bristol, R. I.—Wave length and receiving range have no connection at all. You do not state [illegible] was a crystal or [illegible] hook up.

BOSTON SOCIETY GIRL RESCUED IN BATTLE

Mrs. Ray Coolidge Atherton, daughter of David Coolidge of the Hotel Somerset, was rescued from the midst of a battle between Chinese troops outside the walls of Pekin, according to Universal Service dispatches received by the Boston American.

The young Boston society woman is the wife of Ray Atherton, second secretary of the United States legation at Pekin.

Watching the battle [illegible] she was [illegible] separated from other members of her party. The gates of [illegible] were closed and she found herself directly in the path of two hostile forces.

ESCAPES SHRAPNEL.

As the Chinese troops advanced to commence the battle, a hail of bullets and shrapnel swept near Mrs. Atherton. Fortunately she was unharmed. Other members of the foreign colony passed [illegible] they returned through the gates. An alarm was raised [illegible] American, English and French legation attaches hastily raised [illegible] prompt force from the [illegible] legation guards and sailed [illegible] the rescue of the young woman.

She was brought back to the city in a nervous condition from her ordeal, but otherwise safe.

A few days before the train on which Atherton was riding was held up by hostile troops and [illegible] permitted to enter Pekin after passengers were submitted to a rigorous search.

IN PARIS ROMANCE.

The elopement of Miss Constance Coolidge with Ray Atherton in Paris in January, 1910, came as a distinct surprise to Boston society people.

Miss Coolidge is the daughter of David H. Coolidge, the landscape artist. She was only eighteen at the time of the elopement. Both Miss Coolidge and young Atherton, who is the son of Mrs. George Atherton of No. 222 Marlboro street, were studying in the French capital.

INDIA'S FRIENDS TO LAUNCH BIG DRIVE

Former Lieutenant Governor Edward P. Barry will be the principal speaker at a mass meeting under the direction of the Friends of Freedom for India in Kelly's Auditorium, Bunker Hill street, Charlestown, on Sunday evening. The meeting will mark the opening of a drive to awaken interest in the Indian movement throughout New England.

[illegible] secretary of [illegible] for [illegible] of Boston [illegible] international secretary for the Friends of Freedom for India, and J. P. Arkatti, recently arrived from Bombay, will also speak. Dr. James T. Gallagher will preside.

At an informal dinner at Hotel Westminster on Thursday, May 11, the anniversary of the Sepoy rebellion, now known as India's Independence Day, will be celebrated. Mayor Curley, Mayor Quinn of Cambridge, ex-Governor Eugene N. Foss, Rev. Charles F. Dole, John D. Moore of New York, Mrs. Frank [illegible] Professor Sailendra Ghose will deliver addresses.

"England's one motive in holding India," declared Sailendra Ghose, national director of the organization, "is to follow the lure of the untold wealth of the country.

"The British army of occupation is used solely to protect the agencies of foreign finance. If we can show the English politicians that to attempt to keep India a colony is an unprofitable investment it will not take them long to cancel their [illegible] avowals of solicitude for the so-called 'backward races,' and withdraw their troops."

Women's and Misses'

Homespun and Tweed Coats

19.75

JAUNTY looking sport-cut coats they are. Flare lines, deep set in sleeves, slit pockets and narrow belts give all the youthful style you could ask to every one of them. Utility affairs they are, and you'll like them equally well for informal wear with frocks as well as with sport skirts and over sweaters.

The reason why of the low price is that a manufacturer made up his surplus stock of tweeds and homespuns into quality coats. The fine grade material cost him little—he could afford to let us have the coats to sell at a small price. Notice the all-silk linings of exceptionally fine quality peau de cygne. Coats come in tan, navy, gray, rose and copen.

The large sketch shows the shorter model—42-inch length—cut with the hooked back, and the smaller sketch is of the 45-inch coat with the box plait in the back.

"BABE" CHEERS UP WIFE IN HOSPITAL

New York, May 5.—His tonsils removed, Babe Ruth sat at the bedside of his wife, cheering her with baseball yarns.

The Ruths were operated on within five minutes of each other, and both were reported by physicians to have come from under the knife in "excellent condition."

A half-hour after the home-run champion had come from the operating room he was sitting up in bed, smoking a big, black cigar, his throat being as good as new, he said.

"How's the missus?" he asked.

"Splendid," replied his nurse. "You will be able to see her in an hour or so."

The nature of Mrs. Ruth's operation was not disclosed, but it was said that it was the third of this kind that had been performed on her within a year, and that the ailment was in all probability permanently cured now.

Babe Ruth in making light on his own trouble, insisted that he would be back on the diamond when his suspension by Judge Landis is lifted, May 20.

Says All Commuters Don't Buy Newspapers, but They Usually Try to Sit Next to a Man Who Does

Country real estate is getting so cheap that city people are moving to the suburbs and commuting. A commuter is a man who spends half of his time chasing trains and the other half missing them.

Some railroads run as many as fifty trains a day in a town, but this is foolish—a man can't ride on more than one.

Still, this leaves for some for the other commuters.

If a commuter gets to the station on time he kicks because the train is late, and if he gets there late he kicks because it's on time.

Every man has to read on the train, and all those who don't buy a paper try to get a seat next to a guy who does.

Two commuters got into a terrible fight one morning. A man who had a paper turned the page before the guy who was looking over his shoulder had finished reading it.

One editor advertised that his publication had the largest short der circulation of any paper in town.

The greatest trouble a commuter has is getting to the station before the train pulls out. If he misses it he knows there'll be another one along, but the guy whose newspaper he reads is on the one that just left.

Most men sit at the breakfast table and listen for the whistle while they're eating, but they miss the train, anyway. They're drinking their coffee and don't hear it.

[illegible] no reason why coffee is [illegible].

The substitutes for coffee may have their good points, but they're not any quieter.

The average commuter does most of his [illegible] on the way to the depot. This is why so many stations have mirrors in them.

Several suburbanites have sprained their ankles running for the train and trying to put their shoes on at the same time.

A commuter usually forgets one of two things every morning. He either leaves his commutation book at home or forgets to kiss his wife.

When he forgets his ticket he goes back.

FLAHERTY POST, A. L., PREPARES FOR DRIVE

Commander Matthew J. Boyle of Lawrence J. Flaherty Post, American Legion, presided over a big get-together meeting of World War veterans and business men in the East Boston High School. The purpose of the meeting was to secure a more effective organization among the 8,000 war veterans of that district, and the affair was a part of the membership drive which Boyle's post is staging.

How To Make A Dark Room

1 Use the bathroom, or kitchen—preferably the latter because of the drain board.

2 Set your ruby lamp at a convenient height over the water faucet.

3 Pull down the shades and lock the door. If any light comes through the windows, the keyhole or cracks in the door, tack wrapping paper, or black cloth over the open spaces.

4 Place your Direx chemicals (properly labeled) in a row.

5 Turn out all lights except that from the ruby lamp.

THAT'S ALL!!!

Direx

The Process is Simple—the Cost is Small

IF you have never finished your own pictures, you have missed half the fun of photography.

It is no longer necessary to spend two nights developing and printing from negatives—Direx makes pictures without negatives. The process is simple. There are only four solutions: the first, develops a negative image on the paper that was in the camera; the second, bleaches this image leaving the paper yellow; the third, clears the paper, leaving it white; the fourth, brings the picture back—a fully-toned positive print.

There are no long baths; no tiresome waits; no elaborate apparatus; no special dark room. You watch every step from the moment you turn out the bright light, until you smile with satisfaction over the finished pictures—a period of about ten minutes.

Look for the Store with the Direx Display and buy one of these chemical sets today. (Detailed instructions in each set).

Direx Junior Set (Chemicals only), will finish 4 to 6 rolls, 30 cents.

Direx Chemical Unit (Chemicals only), will finish 40 to 60 rolls, $1.00.

Direx Developing Outfit, with trays, ruby lamp, and enough chemicals to finish 20 rolls, $2.50.

SOCCER TITLE AT STAKE

EXPECT RECORD CROWD FOR SOCCER

By ART CURLY

Another record crowd will go to [illegible] again tomorrow to watch the Soccer all Falcons battle again for the State soccer title. This time it is a game to be in a finish and extra time will be played if necessary. The kick-off will be at 3:30. The Falcons will put their hopes in Billie Fowrie and Jimmy Brown to be able to break through the Olympic defence long enough to get a winning goal. Fowrie knows some of the specialties and has a shot that is liable to come from almost any point with perfect speed. Lefty Jimmy Brown also may give an [illegible] factor if he can get enough to stave off [illegible] from both port of the field. [illegible] of those in all his [illegible] to be in every play and [illegible] opportunities for his team mates.

• • •

It has been rumored that Davy Pace will not be in the Athol line up. Jackie Kershaw is expected to trot out a dark horse. By breaking up his forward line that has shown so much class this season, Jackie may ruin the chances of his team by putting in a man who is not used to the style of his team mates.

• • •

Even though Pace is generally accepted as a temperamental player, and has [illegible] days to know how to beat a good referee, and he has few equals in opposing up his pets, is considered the "[illegible]" the forward rank. He had an off day last Saturday, and if a board to pay this week it would not be like him to be responsible for the warning card.

Arthur Dyer can come out of last week's tilt with an injured ankle and will be in shape to start today.

The Abbots are a slight favorite but with another considerable [illegible] place of Dwyer for [illegible] finds from Pouge Woods will find themselves up against a tough proposition. Last week these seemed to be the only weak spot in the Holyoke outfit. He was presented with several fine opportunities, but bungled them, and although he delivered the equalizing goal, the [illegible] he made all through the game were not offset.

• • •

If the Falcons succeed in stopping up this hole in their forward line they may take the State cup back to Holyoke with them.

John C. Abbot, one of the finest golfers ever connected with the game in these parts, believes that if the team is at least three goals better than their opponents and will be on hand as ever to see things done on the level. He was glad that the Falcons were able to take up for that [illegible] scored by his team and [illegible] the latter cannot win beyond all question he would rather that they lose.

The State Association collected the biggest gate ever in a final and if the weather is anywhere near favorable tomorrow a much larger crowd will be on hand.

The officials will be the same as last week although many fans have expressed a desire to have them changed if possible, even calls the [illegible] way would be best at a close game if there are no [illegible] assistant referees helping him by running the lines.

Jack Britton Picks Doyle to Defeat Shade at Arena

By JACK BRITTON.
(World's Welterweight Champion)

I have been asked to pick a winner of the Doyle-Shade bout which will take place at the Boston Arena next Monday night. The wise boys probably think I am going to name Shade because he went to two draws with me. I am going to cross 'em up and name Doyle to win.

Get me right. Doyle is the hardest hitting man in the welterweight division. There is dynamite in his right. Ask some of his opponents. They know. He is also as good a boxer as Shade and has had more ring experience.

Frankie Schoell won a decision over Shade.

Why not Doyle also?

Around and About the Golf Links

By F. G. THAYER

Mrs. Harry L. Spencer was the winner of the first women's [illegible] tournament conducted by the Woodland Golf Club with a gross score of 51. Miss Eliasen with a 44 was low net. In class B, Mrs. Higgins was low gross scorer and Mrs. Barnard had the low net with a 49. Next week's event will be a flag tournament.

The Newton Country Club of [illegible] Cottage st., Newton, organized about three months ago, is beginning to show evidences of its being one of the best athletic clubs in the state. What is particularly interesting to golfers is the fact that the first outdoor golf instruction school ever attempted in connection with an athletic club, actually began operation next Monday, with Tom H. Fisher as instructor. He is an ex-State amateur champion and to do no injustice to golfers as a first class instructor and has been retained during the Winter months for the last five years by the B. A. A.

• • •

Unquestionably the plan to be worked out at Newton is ideal, and the first of its kind ever to be conducted in this country. Excellent driving and putting facilities have been provided to give those who desire to be on to [illegible] the game of golf correctly an opportunity to secure private instruction, supplemented, and to work out their game under [illegible] loss embarrassing conditions than is frequently the case on regular golf courses.

• • •

As on previous occasions suitable prizes will be donated for the various winners and attractive entertainment provisions are being planned by Billy Soule and his committee to make the first [illegible] event long be remembered as one of the most [illegible] for all time.

Co-operation with this outing a contest will be held for the possession of a team of ten men who will go to New York on June 12 and play in an interclub match with New York newspaper golfers whom Boston defeated last year at Belmont.

CARPENTIER IS CERTAIN HE'LL BEAT LEWIS

Maidenhead, Eng., May 6—Le grand vaut le petit tout le temps [illegible] English that means "A good [illegible] is better than a good [illegible] ever [illegible] Georges Carpentier said [illegible] following [illegible] with Ted Lewis.

That is what they said when I fought Jack Dempsey at Jersey City last Summer, and now it is true of my fight with Ted (Kid) Lewis next week.

"I expect that much sympathy and support will go to Lewis on account of the disadvantage in weight. But it is human nature and the time I know that I am as quick as Lewis and I am [illegible] fast.

"Knowing the fighting craft [illegible] I realize the whole thing resolves itself into the question 'Can [illegible] the disadvantage in weight.'

"I am confident of success. I expect to do my best to be the sportsman I have always tried to be, win or lose, and I never was a [illegible] sport than I am a couple of days before a big fight as the event [illegible]."

Ted Lewis Thompson again if I win next week. I will have to fight Mar[illegible] and then probably Joe Dawson, who has next call. And after that who can say what will happen—perhaps it will be Dempsey again.

"I am ready for him."

BULL FIGHT FANS CRASH REPORTER

Mexico City, May 5 (By the Associated Press)—American baseball fans who mob the umpires have their counterparts in the Mexican bull rings.

Enthusiasts who at the corrida each concluded the season here attacked a reporter who had slighted the matador, Rodolfo Gaona, idol of the capital. The newspaperman was pelted with fruit cushions and even stones and finally a rush was made on him, necessitating police protection.

The reporter had simply said that Gaona was not the best bullfighter in the world.

JUNIOR WELTER CHAMP DOES NOT FEAR SHADE'S PUNCH

DOYLE BELIEVES HE CAN LICK SHADE

By JACK CONWAY.

"I'll outbox Dave Shade at the Boston Arena Monday night. I'll also outpunch him. And I will gain the decision."

Paul Doyle, junior welterweight champion of the world, let a right hand punch crash against the punching bag at Kelley & Hayes' gym. He apparently desired to emphasize his statement.

"I have [illegible] Shade [illegible] a couple of times and know I can trouble him," [illegible] "I was at the ringside when Al Norton held him to a draw in New York. I also saw him [illegible] with Jack Britton.

Going Up! Thirteen Straight Winners for Jack Conway

Thirteen straight!

Jack Conway said thirteen was his lucky number. It was.

Calza, batting true to form, won over Hussane in their finish wrestling match.

Calza's victory, very naturally, was a cruel blow to Jim Londos and some of the other "wise" ones who let the old B. R. ride on Hussane.

As for that little $25 parlay, you would now have $15,380 if you had sent it along on Conway's winning streak.

All of which would be able to buy a spare tire or so.

Jack is busy trying to get the "inside" slant on the Doyle-Shade bout.

You know Frankie Schoell won a fifteen-round decision over Shade, while Al Norton held him even.

Many fans like Shade because he defeated Siegal. You should not forget that Doyle tossed Nate for a loss at Braves Field.

RAIN PLEASES SENATOR BOSS

By NICK FLATLEY

[illegible] of fact doesn't care if [illegible] interfere with a few more [illegible] here on Fenway Park. Clyde's team is in one of those woeful Spring slumps, and when the boys get that way it's hard to shift scenes, as you know from watching the Braves recently.

The new Senator manager has a pretty good ball club with at least two promising youthful pitchers and will cut a figure in the race later on. But just now any day a game's postponed holds out promise for the future, for the club may be going when the double-headers roll around.

The Washington club looks better defensively than it has for quite a while. Little Donie Bush at third base is a real [illegible] and apparently able to hold down the job despite the handicap of age. The [illegible] about as good as any in the league with Judge Harris and [illegible] the diminutive ex-Tiger.

CLUB MUST GET UP

Any club with that array, and Sam Rice, in the garden, has to get up in the race some time. For the present the Sox look at least as good as the Senators, despite the walloping they took on the present invaders' home lot.

As the Senators expect big [illegible] Water [illegible] role when he does start, and that kind of tonic will undoubtedly pull the team out of the doldrums.

HAVE CHANCE TO PROFIT.

Meantime the Red Sox, with the [illegible] to [illegible] the limit, have a great chance to profit and haul themselves up near the first division. The Duffys just now are full of kick and confidence. They [illegible] over [illegible] New York [illegible] Yankee [illegible] way with [illegible] Sox [illegible] The pitch [illegible] for the past ten days hasn't been bad, with Quinn, Pennock, [illegible] and Ferguson all winning.

LAY-OFF IS HELP TO BRAVES' FLINGERS

Brooklyn, N. Y., May 5.—Grossly inefficient management which neglected to provide enough diving suits for the players and life rafts to act as bases, was responsible yesterday for the failure to play a game between the Braves and Dodgers at Brooklyn's young lake.

As a result of the postponement, the Braves are booked for a double header here on May 31, as well as for morning and afternoon games on May 30.

Rube Marquard had the call to pitch for the Braves yesterday, with Joe Oeschger in the offing. The arrangement still stands. Dutch Ruether, southpaw, or Dazzy Vance, right hander, both of whom have starred against the Braves in Boston, will have the call for the Dodgers today, with Burleigh Grimes another possibility.

ZBYSZKO AND SILVA MEET TONIGHT AT NEW BEDFORD

Wladek Zbyszko, who has been out of the wrestling game for two weeks suffering from a slight injury, will meet Justiniano Silva, the Portuguese champion, in a match tonight at the Elm Rink, New Bedford. The match will be to a finish, one fall to win.

In addition to this match Andreas Castano of Portugal makes his first American appearance when he meets Fred Hackman of Boston. The third bout will be between Henry Rodriques and Frank [illegible].

Lexington at Winthrop Today

Lexington High filled its open date for today by arranging a game with Winthrop. The contest will be staged at Ingleside Park, Winthrop Centre.

GLOUCESTER ATHLETICS IN FIGHT FOR LIFE

By FRED C. LANE

The future existence of athletics is at stake at Gloucester High School. Whether or not this famous old fishing port will be represented on the athletic field this year and in years to come, is now up to the boys of the school.

For the past year or two the attitude of the lads who wore the colors of Gloucester has been overbearing and unsportsmanlike. They have taken advantage of the situation that confronts Coach Jack Burke. Drastic action was the only salvation, and this action will have its effect for better or worse in the next month.

Four first-string baseball players were dropped by Coach Burke yesterday. Charles Hemmer, left fielder; Bob Thomas, centre fielder; Ken Geary, infielder, and Charles Bolan, third base, have all been requested to turn in their suits, while the assistant managers, Elliot McLaughlin and Maurice Jenney, have been asked to resign their positions.

It is the culmination of what can be termed an extremely trying situation for Coach Burke and supporters of scholastic sports alike. Unless the feeling that now exists among those remaining on the team undergoes a change they, too, will be dropped, even if it means discontinuing athletics altogether.

Conditions at Gloucester are perplexing, to say the least. The new high school now being built has caused the daily schedule of the student body to be broken up into two sessions, morning and afternoon. This makes it impossible for Coach Burke to have his entire squad out for daily practice.

Captain Van Lenger of Exeter "busted" his way into the limelight with a no-hit, no-run contest against New Hampshire State freshmen. He is the second pitcher of that school to accomplish this feat in the past two weeks. Alex Clement turned in the same sort of performance against Huntington.

* * *

Honey Iewin made his debut as a Suburban League pitcher, and made a creditable showing. He made one mistake in serving one up to "Bo" McMinimen on the outside of the plate, where the versatile catcher of B. C. High likes them.

* * *

It looks like a big year for Joe McKenney of Brighton High in the twirling department. It was Joe's great pleasure to tack a loss on the West Roxbury nine, the same team that sent him to the showers early in last season's session.

* * *

Brighton High now rests in first place in the district high quarrel, and is there to stay, judging from the performance of the other teams in this circuit. When they disposed of West Roxbury they eliminated the most dangerous rival.

* * *

Walter Ryan of Revere High is making a strong bid for an outfield position on the first team. He is now on the second squad, and playing a good game. Continuance of such performances will find him numbered among the first string men before the season closes.

* * *

Coach Ed. Carroll of St. James High is anxious to hear from some fast high or prep school for Wednesday and Saturday of next week, both games to be played in Haverhill. Those interested in meeting the Haverhill team can get in touch with Coach Carroll, Fay street, Haverhill.

Mister S. Harrison Thompson of Princeton is not the most popular athlete in this well known world.

It is a fairly general belief among college track followers that he enjoys dallying under the spotlight much longer than his lines require—doing this or that little thing to attract the attention of the crowd.

Mister S. Harrison Thompson of Princeton probably will be less popular than ever with the sons of Eli Yale ere tomorrow's sun has set, for withal his love for the limelight Mister S. Harrison Thompson is quite some athlete, which fact he will demonstrate to the Eli Yales at Yale Field tomorrow afternoon.

Mister S. Harrison Tompson is a sprinter, a hurdler, a high jumper, a broad jumper, a shot putter, a discus thrower, etc., etc., and he is billed to participate in several of these specialties at the Yale-Princeton track and field meet.

Yale Might Win if Tigers Didn't Have Thompson

Without Mister S. Harrison Thompson in the Princeton lineup, Yale might nose out a win over the Tigers. Otherwise, not a chance—at least according to the justly famous "dope."

Thompson looks like the winner of the shot and discus, looks like a placer in one or both of the hurdle races; looks like the second best man in the high jump, all of which would mean at least fifteen points for Keane Fitzpatrick's team, and fifteen points added to those that such able athletes as McKim, Stephenson, Massey, Baker, Lourie, Emery, Loh, Rutan and Johnson should acquire will give Princeton a decidedly winning edge over the Blue.

McKim Should Win One or Both of the Sprint Races

McKim should win one if not both of the sprints, Stephenson an [illegible] capture the 440, Massey should take one or both of the hurdles, Troup should win the high jump, Lourie the broad jump, Baker, the hammer throw and Thompson the shot and discus giving Princeton at least one more first place than Yale can acquire, while the remaining Tigers [illegible] should add sufficiently to the [illegible] point total to allow the latter to win by fifteen or more points.

Feldman of Yale may, however, take one or both of the dashes, Campbell, if in condition, should win the 880, Douglas the one mile, Hines the two mile, Gardner the pole vault, Bench, the javelin throw and Hulman possibly one of the hurdles. But Yale seems somewhat shy of secondary strength, and even with a better than even break in first places it seems doubtful if the Johnny Mack team could maintain such advantage with their second and third place winners.

The "dope" shows Princeton with 75 points and Yale with but 60.

NAVY CREW SEEMS SURE WINNER TOMORROW

Greater Boston's first opportunity to view in action the powerful Annapolis crew, which during the past few years has won intercollegiate, national and Olympia honors, comes tomorrow afternoon.

On the Charles River the crack Middie oarsmen engage the representative eights of Harvard and Princeton in what promises to prove the greatest college rowing regatta staged locally in many years.

Quite naturally the navy eight rules the favorite, for on top of its record and reputation comes the information that the bulk of the oarsmen are veterans of many thrilling and winning campaigns, and that they have already demonstrated ability equal or superior to that of last year and the year before.

Conditions at Harvard and Princeton Favor Middies

Another factor that makes more pronounced the favor in which the Middies' chances are held comes in reported conditions in Harvard and Princeton rowing circles.

Things have not been going quite so smoothly at the rowing quarters of either the "Big Three" representatives.

At Harvard a new head coach of rowing has been introduced, and shortly after his introduction the man elected captain of the Crimson varsity shell resigned his title and his interest in rowing and a short while later two other varsity oarsmen, both of whom are said to be intimate friends of the resigned captain, turned in their oars and hung up the scanty wearing apparel in vogue with sweepsmen.

It was announced at the time of their withdrawal that all were deeply concerned over their classroom standing, but inasmuch as at least one of their number had been previously reported as one of the best students in his class, a grain or two of salt has been sprinkled over the crew announcement, and even then many have found difficulty in swallowing it.

Losing Veterans Was a Blow to Harvard's Chances

Losing these veterans was a mean blow to Harvard's rowing chances, and, from the result of the recent race with Pennsylvania, a blow that the Crimson has not and perhaps will not recover from this Spring.

At Princeton, according to information, Coach Spaeth has been given much concern by the appearance of several late but very able candidates for the crew.

To start things off, he formed his likeliest looking sweepsmen into two crews—the Orange and the Black—and they proceeded to battle merrily for the right of being styled the first varsity. But after the fraternity elections at Tigertown, a half-dozen or more young men, several of whom rowed on the freshman eight of last year, reported to the squad.

After Mavericks Won General Readjustment Was Necessary.

Coach Spaeth gave them an old shell and a few of the odds and ends candidates that remained after filling the Orange and Black shells, and in a couple of days the mavericks licked the well known stuffing out of both the Orange and the Black, with the result a general readjustment has been necessary.

How well the Princeton varsity will perform tomorrow is a question, but inasmuch as Dr. Spaeth has proved a very successful coach and the oarsmen all will have at least one year's experience in Spaeth's style of oarsmanship, it is a reasonably safe wager that the Tigers will lead Harvard in the battle for second place.

TENNIS MEN TO MEET IN LONDON

New York, May 5.—The United States will be represented at a meeting of delegates of nations interested in the Davis Cup contest which will take place in London on July 8. This meeting is called to discuss the regulations for the contest and particularly to adopt a revision of the clause relating to expenses.

A similar meeting took place a year ago, when changes in the regulations were adopted, excepting only a few clauses that were approved in principle. Drafting of these clauses, including one to reduce expenses, was left to a committee representing England, France and the United States approved a regulation, but France objected to it, so the meeting has been approved for July to afford an opportunity for final discussion that will settle the matter.

ITALIAN CHAMP BEATS BIG TURK

"Viva La Calza" was the slogan of the Italian wrestling fans, as they filed out of the Grand Opera House last night after their idol had defeated Yussiff Hussane, the terrible Turk, in two straight falls.

Calza was awarded the first fall on a foul after ten minutes of slow wrestling. The terrible Turk, or the horrible Turk, as the Calza followers insisted upon calling him, continued to use a stranglehold and after several warnings, Referee Smith awarded the first fall to the Italian sensation.

Hussane's tactics displeased the crowd and after the foul had been [illegible] looked as though some [illegible] might take place. After a few minutes interval, the husky [illegible] continued their quarrel.

It took Calza just thirty minutes to pin the Turk in the second fall. After having Hussane in a bad way [illegible] on his rival which spelled final later.

The representative of Turkey, who has wrestled every good heavyweight in the world, showed little of the class credited to him. It is evident that he has gone back.

Billy Mackey Adds to His Kayo Record

Billy Mackel, the 130-pound knockout king, added his eighteenth knockout by defeating Kid Brizzard, who hails from Canada and was supposed to have had a string of knockouts that would choke a Billy-goat, but ran into one of Mackey's wallops which landed flush on the mouth.

One of the boys at the ringside after bringing poor Brizzard to his senses realized that he had lost his jawbone and would not be able to eat any more chicken.

Mackey in the dressing room said to Brizzard: "I'm sorry kid, you won't be able to use any toothpicks for a while."

Brizzard thinks it was a lucky punch and wants a return match, for which four clubs are already bidding.

MANAGER HUGGINS SORE ABOUT SUSPENSION

By Universal Service.

Philadelphia, May 5.—Manager Miller Huggins of the Yankees is much perturbed over his indefinite suspension by President Ban Johnson of the American League for objecting to a decision by Umpire Ed Walsh Tuesday in the Yankees-Red Sox game at the Polo Grounds, New York.

He made a gesture of deprecation when asked if there was any dissension between him and Pitcher Waite Hoyt over an argument in another game with Boston recently.

"It's getting so," said Huggins, "that you can't speak to some of these umpire autocrats, much less argue with them. Walsh reported me for a remark from the bench. I thought he missed a play at first [illegible] his eyes open. He walked over to [illegible] asked me if I had made [illegible] remark [illegible] ordered me [illegible]

THE BEAUTY SHOP

A Story of Romance, Adventure and Laughs

A Sparkling Tale of Two Countries, in Which the Versatile Hero Wins a Bride Instead of a Fortune

READ THIS FIRST

Dr. Arbutus Budd, proprietor of "The Beauty Shop," sends a dozen bottles of perfume [illegible] form belonging to the Duke of Sizerella. He [illegible] and the bearer [illegible] as a trademark [illegible] is recognized in Bolognia, Spain, as bearing the crest of the Sizerellas. Panatella, a hotelkeeper, Sobini, an undertaker, and Maldonado, a nobleman, want a Sizerella in Bolognia. Sobini goes to New York and persuades the doctor to claim the Sizerella estates. Budd, with his manager Briggs, and his lovely ward Anna, start for Spain with Sob[ini].

("The Beauty Shop," the play by Channing Pollock and Rennold Wolf, has been created into a photoplay by Cosmopolitan Productions, direction of Edward Dillon, scenario by Doty Hobart. It will be released as a Paramount Picture.)

Screen Version Novelized

By Jane McLean

AS the amazed doctor scooped in this unexpected windfall he bowed after the manner of a Hidalgo and dismissed his benefactors with a wave of his noble hand.

"You will attend to [illegible] legal details, Briggs," said [illegible] "and before you go [illegible] to inform you that we [illegible] right from now on [illegible] plural pronoun—we [illegible] forbid you to pay any further addresses to our ward and [illegible] beloved cousin; Anna was always cut out for the nobility; she can now marry into her own sphere. That is all for today, Briggs. If I want you I'll ring."

The creditors had already passed out of the door [illegible] was a most as [illegible] the late Sizerella.

Called a Fraud

You separate [illegible] your creditors where you get that uniform you big fraud.

"Ha, ha," said the Doctor, "[illegible] you take a joke. There [illegible] of course I won't separate you. I need you to screw me [illegible] real nobleman [illegible] self—"

"I see your Dukeship delights to handy words with [illegible]" observed Sobini [illegible] conjuring up [illegible] the arrival of [illegible] streets of Bolognia.

"Just my little [illegible]. By the way, I trust we shall have the pleasure of your company on the journey to [illegible] lesson."

"I shall stick to you [illegible]," replied Sobini feelingly.

"Ah, you Spaniards always were always [illegible] Count [illegible] tears."

A [illegible] Sobini [illegible] to call later [illegible] a cable off [illegible] ings to [illegible] they, in [illegible] the last of the Sizerellas was returning to [illegible] that a Sizerella [illegible] had by all.

Needless to dwell on the excitement of Anna, the [illegible] pation of Briggs [illegible] aloofness of the new [illegible] started for the Old World [illegible] urbane Sob[ini].

For the first time [illegible] existence the business [illegible] Shop was [illegible] creditors, but [illegible] the reason for [illegible] parture having [illegible] property, the affairs [illegible] porium of Pulchr[itude] [illegible] perous and the [illegible] bone were no [illegible] laboratory.

And Bolognia [illegible] eve of Waterloo [illegible] the little Spanish [illegible] day the eager [illegible] tants peered down [illegible] signs of approaching [illegible].

[illegible] gay life was resumed [illegible] the cafes were [illegible] eager [illegible] throw [illegible] the probable length [illegible] of the [illegible] of course, [illegible] and Sizerella.

Never had a visiting personage of high degree been awaited with such eagerness. The coming of Sizerella [illegible] all business; the [illegible] spirit of Spanish chivalry which loves a duel better than a hot tamale had been wakened [illegible] Dr. Arbutus Budd [illegible] coming to him.

[illegible] that famous inventor of [illegible] the originator of [illegible] guaranteed to transform [illegible] into a Cinderella [illegible] on the quarter deck, [illegible] toward the [illegible] Bay of Biscay.

The vessel being larger than a [illegible] steamboat, could not [illegible] the shallow waters of [illegible] whose [illegible] bound [illegible] stretched like a [illegible] but Sobini knew [illegible] were to [illegible] at [illegible] sausage [illegible] proceed [illegible] and express to the waiting [illegible].

Up to Date

They are quite up to date, these Spaniards," said Briggs into the ear of his former employer, "[illegible] engaged compartments for us in advance."

"[illegible]" cried the delighted Anna, "and I always thought Spain was so mediaeval."

The day on which the heir to the Sizerella estates was to arrive was proclaimed a public holiday [illegible] in Bolognia worked on any day, but on this day they [illegible] as hard as usual. It is against the local law for any duel to take place earlier than 6 p.m. [illegible] precaution to prevent the [illegible] from getting too ex[cited] during the heat of the day, [illegible] giving them some [illegible] to look forward to [illegible] anyone can scoot anywhere [illegible] a chance to accomplish [illegible] life.

"When I think of the fighting [illegible] the exultant Maldonado [illegible] to the equally gloating [illegible] I could almost weep for [illegible]."

Ward off one of humanity's greatest enemies by daily use of Kellogg's Bran!

Medical authorities generally agree that sickness and old age start in the intestinal tract through CONSTIPATION—a condition that every man, woman and child in the nation can positively and permanently relieve through the regular use of BRAN—Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled!

Kellogg's Bran is nature's own food, roughage that the eliminative tract must have to function properly! Bran sweeps, cleans and purifies without irritation or discomfort! So wonderful is its work for health that you can take any person who is run down, whose system is clogged and poisoned by constipation, give them Kellogg's Bran three times a day and eliminate the trouble permanently!

Yet Kellogg's Bran is not a "remedy"—simply nature's food. To eat Bran regularly means that you will become normal in the eliminative tract, and in other organs, and escape the dangers that are traceable directly to constipation! Your physician will indorse Bran for constipation.

Do not neglect Kellogg's Bran another day. Every member of your family should eat Bran regularly—at least two tablespoonfuls daily; in chronic cases, eat it with each meal. It does great work for children, making them grow big and strong, and safeguards their health.

Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled, is deliciously flavored. Eat it as an appetizing cereal or sprinkle it over your favorite cereal. Kellogg's Bran makes the tastiest gems, raisin bread, pancakes—and endless other good things—and it is working for health all the time! Buy Kellogg's Bran at all grocers!

"EVERY kind, every color with every fragrance, every size—I have, sir—for your delight. What kind will you take home? Unfortunately, you cannot take home more than one. In Turkey, perhaps, the dusky Cupid there could give you all you could carry away and pay for—but here—one potted flower for one man—and no pay. For I open shop with the Spring, and every chap with youth and a clean heart is welcome to choose. I apologize for the 'youth,' but Dan, you know, has ever been a devotee of Youth and has served it since Eve and Adam were young.

"I have pansies—gentle, wise, deeply-colored pansies. I have violets for fragrance and thought. I have white and gold daisies for simplicity and gayety. I have 'crysitinums' for fluff and flaunt and fine feathers.

"I have white roses for delicacy. I have pinks for demureness and old-fashion. I have gardenias for mystery and subtlety. Whatever your taste, I have the flower, all in its neat little pot and susceptible to sunshine and care!" —NELL BRINKLEY.

What Dreams Mean

MONEY IN YOUR DREAMS. Send Them In and Get a Dollar.

The Dream Editor will be glad to interpret your dreams for you and will pay one dollar each day for the most interesting letter received. Address letters to Dream Editor, Boston American, No. 80 Summer street, Boston, Mass.

SEES STARS, WINS DOLLAR.

Winning letter today comes from W. B. H. of Gardner, Mass.

Dream Editor—I have had many times the dream of seeing a large number of shooting or falling stars. Can you tell me what this vision signifies?

Your dream predicts the fall from grace of some important personage and you will profit by this party's misfortune.

OTHER LETTERS.

Dream Editor:

I dreamed I was in heaven among some little angels but no large ones were there, but my [illegible] who is now living. I [illegible] awake and then went [illegible]. What does this mean?

[illegible]ston. Alice M.

This means that your [illegible] to [illegible] and that you will meet some [illegible] boys and girls. It [illegible] that if you are a good [illegible] be very happy and [illegible] friends.

Dream Editor:

I have dreamed many times lately that I was going blind and that no one seemed to care about [illegible] my relatives. These [illegible] as I have them [illegible].

[illegible] V. C.

D[illegible] any longer about your [illegible] is nothing to do with your [illegible]

Dream Editor:

I [illegible] I was doing my work [illegible] I am a baker. Can you [illegible] what it means?

[illegible] Mass. H. S. D.

It is always a good sign to dream [illegible] working at his trade as [illegible] for the dreamer [illegible].

P. L. M.—Your dream of people who were afflicted with a disease is [illegible] that some one who owes you [illegible] is planning to pay you soon. The rest of your dream signifies that [illegible] are under the protection of your dead relative.

I dreamed I was out walking with a strange girl and that some of my friends saw me and that I felt very cheap. What is the meaning of such a dream?

F[illegible] S. B. J.

This signifies you will shortly receive instruction about your work from one of your new superiors and that you will profit by it if you follow carefully what this person advises you. But you will be tempted to disregard the advice because you will believe that you can better tell what to do yourself.

"There seems but one way out of this trouble," Richard said suddenly. "And that way would be hard for Miss Brown."

"What do you mean?" Henry Hollingshead asked. "Wait a moment longer, please, my dear," to Adelaide, "until Dick explains that remark."

"The explanation is simple," the young man said coolly. "I meant that Miss Brown has pretended [illegible] times past to be Patty—she [illegible] have to pretend the same thing now."

"Oh," the girl exclaimed involuntarily. "I could not—now."

"No," the father agreed. "Of course you could not—now. It would be asking too much of you."

"I—I—did not mean that!" the girl stammered. "I meant that—now—it would seem like sacrilege."

"I understand," the father muttered. As she reached the door he followed her and laid his hand on her shoulder. "You are a good girl, Adele," he said huskily. "I will talk the situation over with Dr. Carter when he has finished his call upstairs this afternoon."

Nobody Could Please Her

Richard said nothing. Adelaide did not glance in his direction as she left the room. She was remembering the remarks he had once made about Dr. Carter's attentions to her.

Mrs. Hollingshead was restless that afternoon. Adelaide knew what was worrying her, although the invalid made no inquiries about her daughter. She was evidently waiting until the physician's arrival, when she would attempt to ascertain from him the exact state of her child's health.

In the meantime neither nurse nor attendant could please her. As a rule, Mrs. Hollingshead was not actually cross. This afternoon she was. She complained that she was neglected, that her nourishment was not properly prepared, that she was tired of everything. Even when her husband tried to divert her by telling her of some outside happening she shook her head fretfully and said that she was "too tired to listen."

"She is worrying too much. She has a rise of temperature," Miss Johnson remarked to Adelaide.

When Dr. Carter arrived Adelaide slipped quietly from the room. But she heard the invalid begin, "Doctor, may I have a word alone with you?"

"Certainly," the physician answered. "Miss Johnson will leave us alone for a minute, I am sure."

Adelaide hurried on to her own room. Richard Hollingshead, always on the alert to spy on her and Dr. Carter, should not say that she sought the physician's society.

Very Obliging.

It was growing dark, and the small boy, groping on the pavement, was weeping bitterly. A man came along.

"Dear, dear, what is all this about? What's the trouble, my boy?" he asked the youngster kindly.

"I've lost me penny," wailed the boy.

The man felt in his pocket.

"Well, don't cry," he said. "If you don't find it before dark, here's a match."

TRY SULPHUR ON AN ECZEMA SKIN

Says Mentho Sulphur Overcomes Trouble Almost Over Night

Any breaking out of the skin, even fiery, itching eczema, can be quickly overcome by applying Mentho-Sulphur, declares a noted skin specialist. Because of its germ destroying properties, this sulphur preparation instantly brings ease from skin irritation, soothes and heals the eczema right up and leaves the skin clear and smooth.

It seldom fails to relieve the torment without delay. Sufferers from skin trouble should obtain a small jar of Rowles Mentho-Sulphur from any good druggist and use it like cold cream.

Household Hints

To clean brass in the form of ornaments, plates and trays, cut a lemon in half, remove the pips, and rub thoroughly over the brass, then soack in warm water, to which a little soda has been added, for a few minutes and brush over to remove the dust from the engraved parts. Dry and polish with a lather and a little ordinary plate [powder].

To rid cupboards of mice, the floor should be gone over carefully and each hole stopped up with a piece of rag dipped in water and then in cayenne pepper.

Daily Short Story

INDIVIDUALISTS ALL

By Bertha R. McDonald

"MILLY'S letter is bubbling over with advanced theories," laughed Mrs. Cambridge, addressing her husband.

"They'd better not start any of that around here!" roared Cambridge pater. "They'll get a fight out of me right off the bat!"

"We mustn't be hasty. Signs of the times, my dear—I saw it coming long ago. If we attempt to block the children peremptorily, they will think they are misunderstood and we won't get anywhere. I've been thinking about this a lot, John, and I'm convinced strategy is the only thing."

When Mildred and Kenneth arrived at 7:30 that lovely June evening they sallied leisurely forth from the station, expecting to submit gracefully to the greeting of their doting parents, then to loll in the luxury of the family car during the journey home.

No Welcome

To their consternation they might have been in darkest Africa so far as any welcome was concerned. Their amazement increased when they were admitted to a dark house by a butler whom they had never seen before; in fact it required no little argument to assure that perfectly poised flunkey that they really belonged there.

The next morning the children applied for admission to their mother's room twice before she would see them, and when at last Mildred rushed forward toward her bed, Mrs. Cambridge raised a protesting hand. "I mustn't be ruffled, my dears," she said. "Kiss me on the cheek and then run along."

A week of this and the heirs to the Cambridge fortunes were crushed. They never saw their father, and the interviews with mother were purely perfunctory. It was impossible to invite their friends into such an atmosphere, and they had no heart to participate in outside gatherings.

Locked in Room

At last, unable longer to withstand the strain, Mildred one day locked herself in her room and indulged in an orgy of weeping. Toward evening Ken asked to come in, admitting he had been nursing a violent headache.

"And we used to brag about our home life," he exclaimed bitterly.

"Well, Ken," began Mildred soberly, "I've made up my mind we had this coming to us. We prattled so much about individualism and keeping abreast of the times Mumsie and Dad have felt they had to do this for us. I see the folly of it now! My old fashioned mother was good enough for me."

At that moment the door opened and mother stood on the threshold, Mumsie of the long ago—with outstretched arms, in which her darlings were almost instantly folded. "Would it be cramping individualism too much to have dinner at home tonight with Dad and me?" she asked with a twinkle in her eye.

Weak and Run-down Caught Cold After Cold Until She Took Wincarnis

"I was very much run-down and feeling real miserable," writes Mrs. Richard Ford, of 45 Lincoln Ave., Cohoes, N.Y. "I caught one cold after another, which kept me coughing and coughing. I was very nervous and irritable. Every little thing set my nerves on edge. My appetite was poor and I wasted down to almost nothing. I was pale and looked simply bloodless.

I decided to try Wincarnis and it certainly benefited me. I never took anything in my life I got so much good from. It is very strengthening indeed and does certainly help pale and bloodless people.

I shall always be glad to praise the merits of Wincarnis and if anyone wishes to write me personally I will be glad to answer all questions regarding what it has done for me."

Wincarnis is sold by all first class druggists.

Stocks Close in a Rally; Call Rate Falls to 3½%; Exchange Rates Rise

FINANCE —AND— BUSINESS

By B. C. Forbes

Just between ourselves, aren't we a little bit inclined to fight shy of the person who hasn't a cent to his name? We have the feeling—bred by experience—that at any moment he is likely to try to make a "touch."

We don't have this same attitude, this same feeling, toward the person we know has handled his money prudently and has succeeded in accumulating a respectable reserve against a rainy day, do we?

* * *

There isn't one of us is there, who doesn't believe in the value of saving money? You have never known anyone, have you, who regretted having saved money?

In short, saving is universally regarded as a virtue.

* * *

We all agree so far, don't we?

All right.

What happens to savings? What should happen to savings? What is the best thing to do with savings?

I think we can all agree on this point also. Savings should be put to use, shouldn't they? They should be deposited in a savings bank or in some other bank, or invested in bonds or mortgages or stocks or some other security, shouldn't they?

At least we all agree that the thing not to do is to hide the savings around the house or anywhere else where they lie idle and useless and unproductive.

* * *

Now, where money is deposited in the savings bank or invested directly in securities, the saver of the money, the owner of the money becomes, in reality, a security owner. Neither savings banks nor any other financial institution can put interest on deposits by leaving these deposits lying locked up in their safes or deposit vaults. In order to earn interest or dividends, money must be put to work, must be rented out, must be invested.

This is still beyond dispute isn't it?

* * *

But now a strange thing happens. While everybody applauds saving and the useful employment of savings, a great many people, not a few politicians, some newspapers, and numerous orators damn the savers when they, by employing their savings, become bondholders or stockholders. Saving is a virtue, but to put these savings to work so that they can earn interest or dividends, becomes a questionable, even a condemnable, procedure. The saver is an angel, the investor a sort of crook, a target to be shot at.

Queer, isn't it? Yet we all know that it is true.

* * *

Let us go one step further and ask where we would be if there were not any "unproductive stockholders," as Henry Ford sneeringly describes security holders — other critics sometimes call them "idle sockholders," "reapers who do not sow," and so forth.

* * *

Who made Henry Ford's own automobile company possible? The stockholders who originally advanced money to him. Who makes it possible for you and me to be carried to and from business by train or street car? Stockholders. Who made it possible for farmers to obtain reapers and binders and tractors to relieve them of the hardest work of the farm? Stockholders. Who made our vast telephone and telegraph service possible? Stockholders. Who makes it possible for us to buy ready-made clothing, shoes, watches and a thousand other things, at relatively low cost? Stockholders. Who has made it possible for us to press a button and flood our homes with light? Stockholders.

* * *

All material progress springs from the saving of money by someone. A nation's resources cannot be developed without capital. The stockholder is the one who supplies the capital for practically every great enterprise in this country. One-man organizations of magnitude are now the exception rather than the rule. We are indebted to stockholders for almost every modern comfort, convenience and luxury of life. The stockholder is among the nation's greatest benefactors. He is to be encouraged, not discouraged. It is he who makes it possible to provide work for millions. He is in reality the best friend the laboring man has ever had, not his enemy.

* * *

Let these simple basic facts sink in.

RAILS LED IN LAST-HOUR ADVANCE

By W. H. ROSS, Financial Editor.

Rails led in the late rally on the New York Exchange, where the lowest price level of the day was reached in the last hour. The reduction of the call rate caused a renewal of buying. The general list was irregular at the finish. Trading approximated a million shares.

New Haven was a feature, it advancing 2½ to 29½ during the session, its high for this exchange for more than a year. It closed at 29⅛.

Largest gains included Brooklyn Union Gas, 1¼ at 106¾; Otis Elevator, 3 at 143; American Woolen, 1½ at 93½; Southern Pacific, 1⅞ at 92; U. S. Realty, 1⅝ at 66¾; Maxwell Motor, 3¼ at 71*; Brooklyn Edison, 3¾ at 109¾, and Julius Kayser, 2¼ at 41*.

Among big losses were Standard Oil of California 1⅝ at 116; Standard Oil of New Jersey, 4¼ at 189½; Mack Trucks, 1 at 50, and Mexican Petroleum ⅞ at 131⅛.

While the market had an irregular opening most stocks were up on initial sales. This position was reversed before mid-morning, profit taking weakening the list. Before midday there had been a recovery and at noon most issues were showing small gains. The price range was narrow.

Oils led morning trading. Tractions were also active. Rails, equipments and steels had a good tone. Traders shifted from group to group, making a broad market. A number of specialties, including Julius Kayser, were much in evidence. News of the day was construed as favorable to the bulls.

The lower reserve ratio of the Federal system had little influence upon securities. It receded from 78.3 to 76.1 in the last week. Boston dropped from 75.9 to 75.0 and New York from 86.5 to 81.9. Call money drop opened at 4½ per cent. and was down to 3½ in the afternoon. Foreign exchange rates advanced a little.

Profit Taking Is Felt by Leaders

By W. S. COUSINS.

Copyright, 1922, Cosmopolitan News Service.

New York, May 5.—The stock market was irregular throughout the morning, speculative leaders being under the influence of profit-taking sales. Oils and motors were firm at the opening, even showing a tendency to advance in the face of heavy liquidation. The railroad shares showed signs of persistent accumulation. New Haven took the leadership at noon by an advance to its previous 1922 high.

The reaction had not proceeded far before buying orders lifted values to the starting point. It is persistently stated that important Wall Street interests are solidly backed of the market and not disposed to permit a severe setback until they have completed their program. They need the co-operation of the general public and will not have it scared away prematurely.

Traction Bonds Are Still in Demand

By MONROE ROBERTS.

Copyright, 1922, Cosmopolitan News Service.

New York, May 5.—Traction issues were again active on the bond department of the New York Stock Exchange today. The railroad bonds were under accumulation and responded to the demand of investors by selling up at fractionally higher levels. Industrial bonds were also active at higher prices.

Government bonds, both domestic and foreign, were comparatively inactive and moved within narrow limits.

Foreign Exchange

New York, May 5.—Opening quotations for foreign exchange were: Sterling, demand $4.41¼, cables $4.44½; French francs, demand .0917, cables .0917½; lire, demand .0535¼, cables .0538; Belgian francs, demand .0838¼, cables .0839; marks .0033½; drachma, demand .0433, cables .0435; Swiss francs, demand .1930, cables .1932; guilders, demand .3835, cables .3840; pesetas, demand .1553, cables .1555; Sweden kronen, demand .2589, cables .2588; Norway kronen, demand .1855, cables .1860; Denmark kronen, demand .2120, cables .2125.

London Market

London, May 5.—The stock market was steady today. Consols opened 58⅛, off ⅛. British war loan 3½s 94; 5s, 99¼, up ⅛; 4½s 98¼, off ⅛; 4s, 100¼; French 5s, 44; Russian 5s, 15¼; 4½s, 12; 4s, 9, up ⅛; Rio Tinto, 28¼.

Grand Trunk 1⅞, De Beers 11⅝, Rand Mines 2⅝. Money 1½ per cent. Discount rates—Short and three months bills 2 5-16 to ⅜ per cent.

Year Highest for Silver

New York, May 5.—In this market foreign bar silver advanced to 71¼c, a new high record for the year. The previous high was 70c on April 19 last.

Metal Market

New York, May 5.—Metal prices were: Copper, spot and May, offered 12⅝; June and July, 12⅝. Lead, spot and May, offered 5.35. Spelter, spot and May, offered 5.05.

Gold and Silver Prices

Bar gold advanced 1d to 93s 5d an ounce in London today, while silver was up ¼d at 35¼d an ounce.

HIGHER PRICES THE RULE FOR BOSTON

The Boston market was quiet and rather narrow. It opened with a majority of stocks up. It was still firmer at noon, but morning trading had been featureless. Coppers were heavy on a few transactions. Packing issues displayed more strength. Rails advanced. Boston Elevated 1 to 82½, but lost part of the gain. Other issues to improve a point or more were Wolverine, Swift & Co. and Swift International. Calumet & Hecla sagged 3 to 270 and point losses were shown by Old Dominion and Boston Elevated preferred.

The afternoon tone was not so good. New Haven advanced 2 to 29½, its highest for more than a year.

Curb prices ruled higher, but this market was not as strong at noon as earlier. Leaders were Boston & Montana, International Sugar and Verde Mines.

Cycles of Prosperity

—the economists say—always proceed by the same general sequence of events.

First, plentiful money—which has ruled for some time.

Second, rising bond prices—already well under way.

Third, rising stock quotations — recently quite in evidence.

Fourth, rising commodity prices — just beginning.

Fifth, gradual return of business prosperity—still in the offing.

By this economic chart (and by all precedents) the bull swing in security prices has a long time to run before it laps over into the general business boom which is anticipated.

Get booked up on the issues which now seem likely to go the farthest.

NEW ENGLAND INDUSTRIAL REVIEW

The Boston American every day publishes an up-to-the-minute review of industrial conditions throughout New England.

This will be found on the Financial Page. Watch for it. Very latest news of labor and capital received from the Boston American's special correspondents and investigators.

Everything in the New England shoe industry just now hinges on the outcome of the general attempt of the manufacturers to put through a 20 per cent. wage cut and bring back the five and one-half day working week. Haverhill manufacturers are expected to make some such proposition shortly to the 13,000 hands they employ.

It is expected manufacturers elsewhere will order their course by the course pursued by the big shoe interests of Haverhill and Lynn. In Lynn the shoe trade is in straits. Everywhere manufacturers are praying for warm weather. Retailers are refusing to give orders for Fall shoes until they get their Summer goods off the shelves, and the public won't buy Summer shoes in Winter weather. C. Chester Eaton, a prominent Brockton manufacturer, is one who refuses to be pessimistic, and he predicts a good Summer trade. The other sick man among New England industries—the textile industry—is not getting well any too rapidly. There is no indication of a break in the textile strike.

If textile and shoe industries are in a bad way, however, building is not. The F. W. Dodge Company of New York reports that building contracts amounting to $44,500,000 were awarded in New England during April, more by $5,000,000 than were ever awarded before in a single month.

Lynn Has Cheerful Revival of Shoe Work, But No Rush

Lynn, May 5.—Sixty shoe cutters, who have been unemployed for weeks, returned to work today, their factories having received rush orders. While no tremendously big orders are being reported, small orders are increasing and the situation in the shoe industry is decidedly more cheering as a result. The Hanson Shoe Company, a new concern doing business on Boston street, hired twenty women stitchers and seventeen men in other departments today. There will be more men hired during the week. The concern will employ about 150 operatives.

Pawtucket Sees No Change in Mill Strike Situation

Pawtucket, R. I., May 5.—The situation in this city is practically unchanged. Few, if any, of the strikers that walked out of the local mills when the notice of the 20 per cent. cut in wages was first posted, have returned to work, according to union officials.

The eviction of tenants in other towns because of their being strikers has not influenced Pawtucket or Central Falls landlords to follow the example. On the other hand, threatening letters and verbal threats against those whose property is housing alleged "scabs" have proved futile.

Hopes Hot Weather Will Revive Shoe Industry

Brockton, May 5.—Two or three weeks of good, warm weather over the entire country will have a great deal to do with reviving the shoe industry in Brockton, according to one of the leading shoe men of the city. The shoe business is now at a low ebb, and hundreds of shoe workers are idle. The big retailers are not buying Fall shoes, simply because they are not selling the shoes already on hand. The weather has a lot to do with the sale of Summer footwear, and the local manufacturer claims that when warm weather comes and remains for a couple of weeks, the Summer footwear will be sold and then will come the orders for Fall and Winter shoes.

The majority of the Brockton factories have completed their runs on Summer shoes, and are awaiting Fall orders. From the Middle West and from points beyond the Mississippi come reports from shoe salesmen that the retailers are shy and are not willing to lay up a Fall stock, while their shelves are still laden with Summer shoes. C. Chester Eaton, of the C. A. Eaton Shoe Company, has an optimistic view of the future and predicts a busy Summer season. This view is not entertained by many other manufacturers, however, including John S. Kent, president of the Brockton Shoe Manufacturers' Association.

National Warning in Senator New's Defeat

The administration at Washington is beginning to learn the result of its foreign alliance policy.

It was elected by an enormous majority because the citizenship desired to rebuke Wilson for his attempt to abandon America's policy of freedom from foreign alliances.

It is now going to be defeated quite as overwhelmingly because it, in its turn, entered into entangling alliances with foreign nations in defiance of George Washington's injunction and of the historic precedents of the nation. The offence of the Republican administration is even greater than that of the Wilson administration, for the reason that the Republican administration leaders denounced as un-American the Wilson policy of foreign alliances, and pledged themselves definitely and specifically, in the clauses of the Republican platform and in the speeches of the candidates, to reverse the Wilson policy and to abide by the policy of no entangling alliances enunciated by Washington and repeated and adhered to by all great American statesmen since Washington's day.

The Republican administration's pledges were repudiated, the people were betrayed and the President and Senate sold America's birthright of independence for a mess of international bankers' pottage.

Now comes the opportunity of the people to retaliate, however. Elections are on. Democrats are beating Republicans at the polls, and, where there is no chance of a Democrat beating a Republican, anti-administration Republicans are defeating administration Republicans at the primaries.

Senator New has been the administration's spokesman in the Senate, the leader of the pledge-breakers, the chief exponent of the foreign alliance faction, the dependable agent of the international bankers. He has just been defeated in the Indiana primaries by twenty thousand majority. Beveridge, anti-administration Republican, has wiped Senator New off the map, retired him to private life, where he belongs, and where he can serve the international bankers more honorably, although less effectively.

American Republicans generally are defeating foreign alliance Republicans, and, where they are not doing so, Washingtonian-Jeffersonian Democrats are defeating the betrayers of the American people and of historic American principles and policies. But remember, gentlemen of the Democratic party, Washingtonian Democrats are not Wilsonian Democrats.

The Democratic party must not repeat its mistake of two years ago. If it does, it will repeat its defeat of two years ago. When the Democratic party returns to power, it must return to democracy.

From Mill to Playground

Supreme Court Will Undoubtedly Uphold Federal Statute Abolishing Worst Form of Child Labor

Spring means the return of warm life to the frozen world. It means the blooming of flower and tree, the return of birds, the laughter and play of happy children.

This is the third Spring that 150,000 children, formerly condemned to inhuman labor, have been free to play and go to school. It was in 1919 that a Federal law went into effect abolishing the worst forms of child labor by levying a tax of 10 per cent. on the profits of corporations that (1) work children under sixteen in mines and quarries; (2) work children under fourteen in factories; (3) work children from fourteen to sixteen over eight hours a day or over six days a week. That legislation affected 150,000 of our boys and girls.

Whether they shall remain free hangs upon a pending decision of the United States Supreme Court. Five weeks ago it listened to arguments on the constitutionality of this Federal law. It has already been declared unconstitutional by Federal Judge Boyd of North Carolina. He claimed that, under guise of Federal taxation, the law interfered with the rights of a State to regulate its internal affairs.

There was national disappointment and chagrin when in 1918 the Supreme Court decided that the 1916 Child Labor Law was unconstitutional. That law forbade interstate transportation of the products of child labor. This same Judge Boyd, in the interest of the Southern cotton mills, ruled that the law infringed upon the constitutional right of contract—in this case, the right of a father to contract out the labor of his children. A North Carolina father was induced to represent that he could not get along without the earnings of little children whose employment had been forbidden by the law.

But this time the decision of the Supreme Court will, in all likelihood, reverse Boyd and uphold the statute, judging from the court's decisions in similar cases in the past.

The Department of Justice's conduct of the case has been extremely able. The brief of the Solicitor-General is a splendid example of the defence of the helpless against oppression.

We have a right to hope and believe that the 150,000 children will not be driven back to factory, mine and quarry.

Aid the Jewish Drive

Boston Should Respond Cheerfully and Generously for Relief Work in Europe

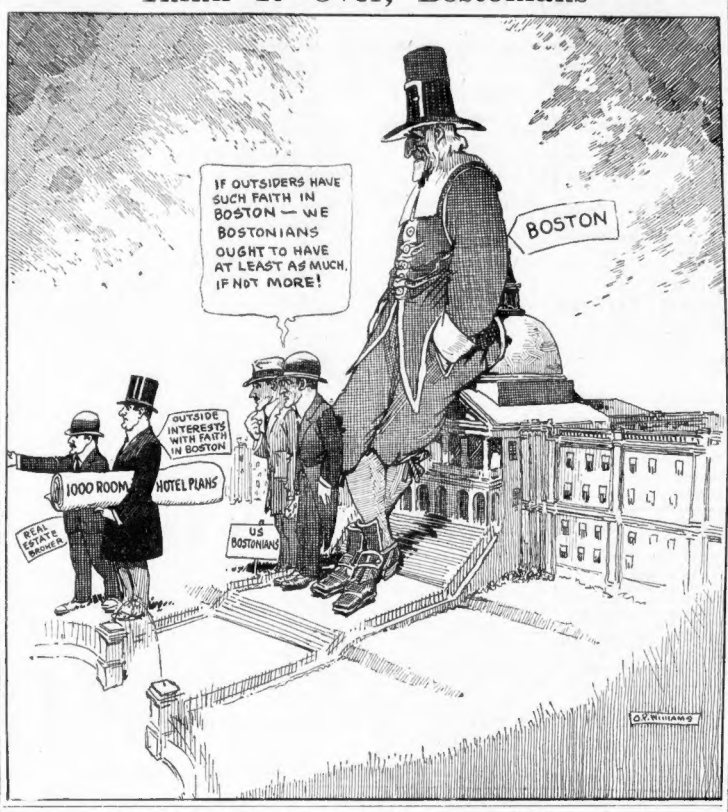
Boston Jews, cheerful givers always when charity is what is needed, are this week conducting a drive for the relief of their own people in Eastern and Central Europe.

It is sincerely to be hoped, for the honor of Boston, that the response of the people will be worthy of the merit of the cause. There are drives and drives, but this one stands out. It is not for fads, nor luxuries, nor propaganda. It is for the saving of human life, the amelioration of the lot of helpless babies and old men and women, who are hungry and cold and often homeless, and who are dying in the thousands in the famine-swept reaches of Russia and the Central Nations and in the distracted little countries in the Balkans.

If a hawker in the street cried after you, "Human lives for sale. Who'll buy?" you would be amazed, incredulous, a bit indignant. But this campaign for funds gives you the chance to put your dollars to work saving life and making it worth living just as surely as if you paid down the cash to some brutal taskmaster in return for the release of his victims.

It is understood the drive will be extended a week to put the city well over the top with its apportionment of $750,000. That $750,000 should be contributed, for the honor of Boston and the relief and comfort of the European Jews, long before the time is up.

Think It Over, Bostonians



Somebody's Birthday

Copyright, 1922, by the Bell Syndicate, Inc.

IF today is your birthday you should have a nature as intricate as it is generally misunderstood, for although you have all the desires, ambitions and feelings of the ordinary mortal, your mind is capable of a certain impersonal detachment, which makes you clear and fearless in your judgments of yourself as well as of others.

In other words you have just the one type of intellectual honesty which is never popularly understood. You do things because they are intrinsically worth doing rather than because there is some profit in it for you.

You are a born student and are constantly analyzing all that comes under your eager scrutiny. You have also the talent for expression in words which should give you some fame as a writer. But you should cultivate both modesty and self-reliance. Remember it is always twice as difficult to do something you have talked about.

STATESMEN AND ANCIENT BUGABOO OF WAR

By Dr. Charles Fleischer

Copyright, 1922, by King Feature Syndicate, Inc.

YOU are no statesman; so that you do not have to feel helpless in facing world problems.

There is, for instance, the problem of war and peace. To the typical statesman, war appears to be normal and inevitable, and peace is a pause between conflicts.

On the other hand, to you as an average layman, unless your spirit has been poisoned by political propaganda, peace is the normal state and war is the abnormal condition of nations.

When you face the fact simply, not of course with the unintelligible intelligence of the international statesman, there is no more reason why nations should be in a murderous conflict than that individuals should be, or itching to be, beating out one another's brains.

Still seeing with unstatesmanlike simplicity, we hold that a mass of persons, called a nation, is not essentially more homicidal in its nature than are the individuals who compose that mass.

Worse of Nations

If you think that you think otherwise, please ask yourself frankly whether you have not been propagandized and psychologized and hypnotized into thinking worse of our fellow-nations then you think of your fellow-man.

There is no getting away from the fact that, despite the universal protestations of horror towards war and the equally general recognition of its terrible futility, there are persons and elements who are brutal propagandists for war.

The pernicious influence of this type is recognizable in the many persons who are honestly convinced that war is inevitable.

One might ask them: When and how often? If once in a generation, why not three times or ten times? Or why not once in a century?

Or why not organize the world "or permanent war?

But that we had especially in mind with this article was to save the average, peaceable person from discouragement in the face of the existing international dread of further war.

Namely, we want to say, as strongly and as simply as words can convey the conviction: THAT WE NEED HAVE THE NEXT WAR, OR ANY OTHER WAR, ONLY WHEN THE PEOPLE OF ANY PROSPECTIVE FIGHTING NATION ACTUALLY WANT WAR.

So far are the people themselves from wanting war—whether in momentarily militant France, or in seemingly sullen and resentful Germany, or in domineering England, or in world-menacing Russia—that not even the chancelleries of any one of these nations could, for a decade to come, hope to stir the supposed wardust of the people.

Seized With Mania

Premiers and secretaries of State seem to be seized with the mania of a contagious madness, inherent in all the foreign offices, as soon as these men feel the burden of responsibility for the guidance of international relations.

The recognizable symptoms of such a mania are the fear of persecution and the desire to fight. Both of these symptoms, of course, on behalf and in the name of the nation!

The one great hope of the word peace and orderly progress lies not in leagues of nations or disarmament conferences, but in the lessening influence of terrified statesmen and in the growing power of a rational democracy.

To America one might say: Keep well armed, mind your own business, love all nations, and don't let John Bull worry you about non-existent bugaboos!

ONCE OVERS

ARE YOU HELPING THE MISGUIDED BROTHER?

In practically all secret bodies, it is said, each member takes an obligation in which he promises to do what he can to change the course of a fellow member whom he knows to be doing wrong.

The chances are, Mr. Lodge Man, that you know certain things which your brother lodge member is doing that he should not do.

A word from you might mean reformation.

Often those who are engaged in something which is in opposition to the laws of society feel that they can cleverly cover their misdeeds and none need know.

Such persons would immediately abandon such a course if they believed that someone knew of their violations.

If you were sincere when you took your lodge vows you should feel it your duty to try to save your fellow lodge member from downfall, when you know he is travelling forbidden paths.

N. Y. to Paris in a Day

PARIS, May 5.—What is the future of aviation? Will the airplane eventually replace the train, the steamship and the automobile? Is the astounding air development of the past few years near ing its end? The automobile, say experts, is now perfection—it cannot be improved. How near is the airplane to similar triumph?

These questions were the basis of an inquiry made by the Paris Bureau of Universal Service among aviation experts in France, admittedly the country where air travel has reached its highest stage of development.

Deputy Rene Fonck, ace of all aces, said:

"Before the year 1925 comes I expect to dine one evening in Paris and the next evening in New York.

"If automobile progress was rapid, airplane progress has and will be still more rapid. Already tremendous strides have been made toward perfection since the war. Progress since 1918 has been more rapid, if anything, than progress between 1914 and 1918. If the war were to begin again now airplanes would end it within a few months. That is why air development is so important to the security of France—of any nation.

"I am convinced that the future lies with the heavier-than-air machine and not with the airship."

SEEN AND HEARD

By Lambert and Daily

FORMER CONGRESSMAN DIETRICK may be found at the State House fighting for relief for the blind and infirm day in and day out. He is himself a cripple. When he ran for Governor his principal campaign expense was for an extra wooden leg he bought to tramp from one end of the State to the other.

With the return of ANDREW J. PETERS from his California vacation, a quiet but effective boom has been started for him for Governor.

After going over the annual budget of MAYOR CURLEY, which called for an appropriation of over $34,000,000, the City Council passed it without even cutting their initials on the pondorous affair.

REPRESENTATIVE FRANK E. LYMAN of Easthampton, who was one of the foremost opponent's of annual elections, is now confessing to his friends that biennials have failed to put a stop to politics. Lyman occupies the important but unenvious office of chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee.

COUNCILLOR JAMES A. WATSON has added another recruit in his opposition to welfare societies. COUNCILLOR GEORGE F. GILBODY took a "swat" at the overseers of public welfare during a hearing on the budget when he called some of their visitors "vicious and hard boiled," and that they humiliated many families who are seeking aid from the city.

It is no soft job being commissioner of public celebrations, but PHILIP J. O'CONNELL seems to have the knack of making public affairs this year brimful of pep.

OUTSIDE of Judge Pierce and the lawyers, the two most constant attendants at the Pierce hearings have been President Allen of the Senate and Speaker Young of the House. They have occupied inconspicuous seats with the spectators, but before it is all over will take a conspicuous part in deciding what will be done to the judge.

REPRESENTATIVE HARRY E. WOODILL, the giant of the House, is back at his seat after a long illness. Woodill looks like 6 feet 5 inches and 350 pounds, although he might dispute the latter.

COLONEL JOHN H. DUNN, chairman of the street commissioners, is working night and day on problems of relieving the congested traffic of the downtown districts. It might be necessary in the near future, says the commissioner, to exclude pleasure vehicles from the business section entirely.

IF Congress passes the bill to create a new batch of Federal judges, SENATOR LODGE is expected to try and straighten out the Republican tangle here by tucking either GOVERNOR COX or ATTORNEY-GENERAL ALLEN into a judgeship.

JAMES H. DOYLE, former president of the old Board of Aldermen, was seen recently passing through City Hall. Many remarked that it looked like old times to see "Jim" about the hall.

COUNCILLOR WILLIAM J. WALSH, brother of U. S. SENATOR WALSH, is entertaining for a few days CERDO CARMINO, Cerdo is the Senator's valet, and is one of five Filipinos that he brought to America when on a visit to the island.

GARRETT P. SERVISS ON GRAVITATION

By Garrett P. Serviss

A CURIOUS and very unusual question is the following received from a New Jersey correspondent:

"Why has the force of gravitation never been harnessed to work? I understand we call gravitation a force, and man has contrived many devices to overcome this force, but none to utilize it. Is there an insurmountable obstacle to that it is impossible to use the so-called 'gravitation' as a motive power?"

Many readers will probably immediately say: "Doesn't he know that gravitation is everywhere and continually utilized to drive many different kinds of machines?"

Different Aspect

I have no doubt that he does know it, but, as I shall point out in a moment, there is a different aspect of the matter which must be that which he takes, and it will be very interesting to consider the reason why the force of gravitation, as viewed from the point that my correspondent evidently has in mind, is not and probably never will be effectively utilized for mechanical purposes.

In its ordinary aspect gravity (the earth's gravitation) is man's constant and, one might say, willing servant, and he uses it in many ways. A watch mainspring is a gravity machine. Gravity is necessarily utilized wherever water power is employed. An automobile skimming down hill with power shut off is driven by gravity.

But, as I have said, there is another way to look at the matter, which is doubtless the view the correspondent in New Jersey is thinking of. What he would wish to do is to utilize gravitation independently of the earth. He says: "Gravitation is a force; then why can't we harness it to work as we harness steam, for instance?" Apparently he is misled by the familiar definition of gravitation which tells us that it acts between every particle of matter in the universe, and is not to be screened off by anything interposed. Perhaps he is thinking of the many ways in which we utilize a far less extended force of attraction, viz., magnetism.

But he neglects a most important, a capital and deciding factor. Gravitation in itself is an exceedingly slight force, which seems great only when exercised between very great masses of matter, or by a very great mass upon smaller bodies, as happens with the earth and the things on its surface.

Magnetism Greater

But ponder a moment on such an experiment as this: Take a small magnet and hold it over a needle lying on a table. Gravity is holding the needle down—the whole gravitational force of the earth—yet when the little magnet is brought near, the needle leaps to its embrace, defying the mighty planet. The comparison is not in all respects a fair one, but it does show that, for our purposes, magnetism is an enormously greater force than gravitation.

In fact, gravitation does not become powerful enough to be of mechanical use until the mass of matter concerned is immensely great. Suppose we wish to make a machine to utilize gravitation independent of the attraction of the earth. Gravity is only manifested between masses of matter, is only measured by the amount of those masses, and varies inversely with the square of the distance between them. It would be this force acting between masses, which we would have to employ. But do you know how large the masses would have to be if they were to afford you even the slightest degree of mechanical power?

If they were as big as mountains you could hardly run a paper pinwheel by their gravitation! The "constant of gravitation" is a force so small that it amounts to only one fifteenth-millionth of a dyne, and a dyne is only the force required to give one gram of matter a velocity of one centimeter per second by acting upon it during one second of time.

Anybody who wishes to make gravitation his slave must be able to handle giants as easily as billiard balls.

EX LIBRIS

By Zoe B. Faber

KATHERINE NEWLIN BURT, the author (or do they call a woman writer an authoress?) of "The Branding Iron," "Snow-Blind" and a few others, has another story just put on sale. This time it is "Q," published by Houghton-Mifflin.

It's very rapid reading, and if you want to be entertained for a couple of hours this is just about as good for the purpose as anything we can think of. It is, of course, very light, but it is readable and on the whole enjoyable.

The young stranger from the Wet Indies in on the sleepy little set-in-its-ways town of Sluypenkill, New York, and his procedure and the methods thereof from the day of his arrival constitute the tread of the story.

The character drawing of "Q" and also of Dr. Sales, who is more of a parasite than is pleasant for the surrounding community, is quite well done in each case.

"Q" himself is a curious combination of troublemaker and peacemaker, which would seem to be a paradox of the worst variety, but somehow or other Katherine Burt manages to work things around so that it does not strike you as being particularly paradoxical—rather clever.

As a perfectly harmless and rather amusing time killer we recommend "Q" to you. It, at least, has the grace of being entirely and wholesomely clean—much more than can be said for most of the present-day time killers.
